POLE FLEES HIS U.N. DELEGATION

Sen. McCarthy Ousts Lawyer From Hearing

Red Trial Attorney Marched Out Amid Spectators' Hisses

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) interrupted a witness' harangue today and had him thrown out of a televised Senate subcommittee hearing on communism.

McCarthy accused the witness, Atty. Abraham Unger, of filibustering instead of answering accusations that he was once a Communist party functionary— "a dedicated person and a professional revolutionary."

Unger, a thin, bespectacled lawyer aided in the defense three years ago of the 11 convicted American Communist leaders.

Marched Out Amid Hisses

"I will not allow a Communist lawyer to use this room as a transmission belt," declared McCarthy, in a loud, angry session that climaxed a week of hearings into possible Communist infiltration of the United Nations.

At McCarthy's direction, two guards interrupted Unger's full-voiced discourse on constitutional rights, seized his arms, spun him around and marched him out a courtroom door to the hisses of about 150 spectators.

As he had earlier, McCarthy promised to seek a contempt citation against the attorney and also against two other balky witnesses before his Senate permanent investigations subcommittee. The other two are Unger's law associate, David Freedman, and Julius Reiss, an American employe of the Polish delegation to the United Nations.

Witnesses Insist On Rights

McCarthy tried in vain to pin down the two lawyers on whether Reiss ever assisted them in the defense of the 11 top Communists. Reiss has been pictured by witnesses as a former Communist organizer.

However, the witnesses insisted on their rights under the Fifth amendment, which protects against self-incrimination.

EJECTED—Attorney Abraham Unger is shown on his way out of a hearing on communism yesterday in New York after Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) interrupted his harangue and had him ejected from the televised sesson. McCarthy accused the witness of filibustering instead of answering accusations he was once a Communist party functionary.

Communists Free 13 More Captives

Repatriated Group Includes No Yanks

PANMUNJOM, Saturday, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Communists today released 12 South Koreans and one Turk they said once decided to remain with the Reds but later changed their minds.

There were no Americans among the freed prisoners of war.

Brig. Gen. Ralph Osborne, commander of the Munsan Provisional Command, was on hand to welcome back the 13 men.

Three helicopters stood by to rush them to hospitals if they were in need of special care.

Display No Emotion

They showed no emotion as they quietly climbed down from the truck one by one when a South Korean marine called out their names.

Allied hopes were that these few constituted a trickle that would grow into a flow of thousands of men believed held back by the Reds. But a Communist newsman called this a groundless hope.

The Reds said the little group was among 320 men who had elected to remain under Communist rule. Those returning today simply changed their minds, the Reds said.

Available For Interviews

An Allied army spokesman said the men would be available for interviews in Seoul if they are cleared by doctors and if they are willing to meet reporters.

During the big prisoner exchange, the men released were interviewed at Freedom Village near Munsan.

After the big prisoner exchange ended, the U. N. Command turned over a list of about 3,500 names, including those of 955 Americans, and demanded an accounting.

The Red command never has replied officially but yesterday a Communist newsman, Wilfred Burchett, said "There is nobody being held except the handful who won't go back."

'Four Percenter' Figure Stripped Of All GOP Roles

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Republican leaders disclosed today that Warren L. Stephenson, central figure in a congressional "4 percenter" investigation, has been quietly stripped of all his party roles.

The dapper, smooth-talking Stephenson, who served as executive secretary of President Eisenhower's inaugural committee, acknowledged to a House Armed Services subcommittee last June that he offered, for a $2,000-a-month salary or a fee of 4 per cent, to try to obtain military contracts for a California firm.

Dropped From Committees

George L. Hart Jr., secretary of the District of Columbia Republican Committee, told newsmen today that Stephenson has been dropped from the 86-member GOP committee and from the party's local finance committee.

Hart said Stephenson has also been ousted as secretary of the District Republican Club. Hart is the club president.

In addition, White House officials disclosed that Stephenson no longer has a White House pass—a privilege he enjoyed while making arrangements for local celebrations in connection with President Eisenhower's inauguration.

Officials said Stephenson's temporary pass ran out on June 15.

Was "Indiscreet"

It was in June that the House subcommittee haled Stephenson behind closed doors to question him about alleged influence-peddling and drew from him a story of bargain rate "4 percenter" operations reminiscent of the "5 percenter" deals exposed during the Truman administration.

The House group finally made Stephenson's closed-door testimony public on Sept. 9. The transcript of the hearing quoted Stephenson as acknowledging he was "indiscreet" in spreading information about bids for building rocket launchers for the Navy.

Summerfield Rips Demos As 'Communist Coddlers'

Sen. Ferguson Hits 'Radical Eggheads' In Democrat Party

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield ripped the Democrats tonight as Communist coddlers who installed government by crisis, and called President Eisenhower a man of destiny who brought a "clearer and cleaner" atmosphere to Washington.

The GOP, in party conferences, marched against the Democrats in full scale counter-attack. There were twin objectives — meeting head-on Democratic charges of broken promises, and marshalling their forces behind Eisenhower's personal popularity to strengthen their shaky hold on control of Congress in the 1954 elections.

Ferguson Looses Barrage

Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, raked the Democrats as "irresponsible" and said "radical eggheads" control their party. Summerfield kept the barrage rolling on this opening day of a 2-day Republican rally.

The postmaster general praised Eisenhower — who will make a brief, informal talk to a party delegation tomorrow at a suburban airport—as "our greatest natural resource," our "greatest deterrent to World War III."

"His election has been a classic example," he said in his prepared address, "of the time and the man meeting head-on at a strategic moment in history. . .

GOP Answer To Demo Rally

"President Eisenhower believes passionately that our great and powerful America of today is pregnant with an even greater and more powerful America of tomorrow—an America that must fulfill its destiny of leadership in the community of nations in a world where all men will be brothers and where all nationalities will live in mutual respect—with pride in the present and with boundless faith in the future."

The Republican rallies of women from Midwestern and Southern states and state chairmen from Midwestern and mountain territory are the GOP answer to a national Democratic rally here the first two days of this week. Aside from speeches, the sessions were pretty much routine affairs given over to vote-getting techniques and campaign organization problems.

Seeks U. S. Asylum

Gray, Anti-Red Diplomat Asks Asylum In U. S.

Dr. Korowicz Says Life Is 'Nightmare' Behind Iron Curtain

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—A Polish diplomat, desperate for freedom after night marish years behind the Iron Curtain, sought American asylum today, after a dramatic, secret flight from his United Nations delegation.

"Life in Poland was a nightmare," said Dr. Marek Korowicz, 50, a Catholic and a brilliant former professor of international law at Krakow University.

A gaunt, gray, sharp-featured man, he was chosen Sept. 6 as first alternate of the Polish delegation to the U. N. He arrived in this country just four days ago.

Idea Born 12 Days Ago

The idea of escape, Korowicz said, was born 12 days ago when he first learned he was to come to the U. S.

Korowicz, who has no family in Poland, nearly talked himself out of the U. N. assignment before it dawned on him that here at last was a chance to escape the yoke of communism. Then he made his decision.

"I kept my decision a closely guarded secret even from my best friends," the diplomat added.

Late today, however, he shared the secret with the world, pledging himself to work "for the liberation of my homeland and all peoples oppressed by Soviet communism."

His statements were being broadcast to Poland by Radio Free Europe, part of an organization that offers assistance to Communist exiles.

Dulles' Words Warm Heart

On Tuesday, not many hours before his escape, Korowicz sat in the U. N. General Assembly, outwardly just another grim-faced Iron Curtain attendant at the opening session.

Forty-eight hours later, however, a free man and with his emotions no longer held in rein, he found his heart warmed by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' Thursday speech to the same Assembly.

Korowicz was the fourth Polish national to flee to the West in six months. Two Polish jet fliers and a Polish interpreter in Korea previously sought asylum in America.

Soviet U. N. Delegate Jacob A. Malik was asked for comment on Korowicz' break with his Communist-controlled homeland:

Wife Of Missing Briton Boarded Train To Austria

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 18 (AP)—Swiss police were more and more convinced tonight that Mrs. Donald D. Maclean and her three children rode the Orient Express of spy thriller fame into Austria, and possibly behind the Iron Curtain, when they vanished a week ago.

The latest clue to support this belief turned up when Police Chief Ami Lavanchy in Lausanne said the Chicago-born wife of a long-missing British diplomat was identified by a ticket collector as having boarded the train in Lausanne for Zurich, carrying tickets to Bad Gastein.

Bad Gastein is a mountain retreat in the U. S.-occupied zone of Austria. The Soviet-occupied zone lies only 85 miles away. The town is off the main Arlberg-Orient Express line to Veinna, where the Big Four powers share occupation duties. But the Maclean family could have stayed on until the train reached that city of intrigue and slipped easily into the Soviet sector unnoticed.

Swiss police, British agents and Austrian police all are working on the theory that Mrs. Maclean headed out of Switzerland for a pre-arranged rendezvous with her husband, who himself was believed to have vanished behind the Iron Curtain with fellow diplomat Guy Burgess in 1951.

A Lausanne professor positively identified the 37-year-old mother and her three children—Fergus, 9, Donald, 7, and 2-year-old Melinda—as fellow passengers on the Lausanne-Zurich train last Friday night.

Earlier, police found in a Lausanne garage the black Chevrolet sedan in which the Maclean family had driven off from Geneva Friday morning. The attendant at the garage said the woman told him she would be back for the car in a week. He said she then hustled her children to the railway station.

Retired Banker Dies

EAST HAMPTON, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—Morgan Belmont, 61-year-old retired banker, died last night of a heart attack at his summer home.

Nora Divorces Singer Haymes

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18 (AP) — Mrs. Dick Haymes won a divorce this morning and afterward told newsmen she wishes the crooner and his intended bride, Rita Hayworth, "all the happiness in the world."

This afternoon, however, she indicated she may not go along with Haymes' plans to obtain a Nevada decree which would enable him to re-marry quickly. Her California divorce will not become final for a year.

She said she has decided to "think it over a while" before signing a waiver which would permit Haymes to win a divorce without contest.

After the divorce hearing the former Nora Eddington Flynn had indicated that she would not stand in Haymes' way.

Haymes had planned to wed Miss Hayworth in Las Vegas, Nev., Sept. 24. His attorney here, David Marcus, said Mrs. Haymes' switch makes Dick's plans indefinite. One of Haymes' attorneys was waiting for Mrs. Haymes to sign the waiver and take it by plane to Las Vegas.

Disney Film Honored

LONDON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Walt Disney's British-made film, Rob Roy, was selected today as this year's royal command performance picture.

The production, a live action film based on the Walter Scott novel, will be shown before Queen Elizabeth II and the royal family on Oct. 26 at a downtown movie palace.

Hershey Predicts Big Rise In Draft Calls Next Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, said tonight draft calls may soar to 50,000 or 60,000 a month after July of 1954.

The present rate is about 23,000 a month, which Hershey said would probably be maintained until the end of this fiscal year, ending next June 30.

"After July 1, 1954, I expect material increases . . . perhaps as high as 50,000 to 60,000 a month," he said during a radio interview.

TV Color Test Oct. 15 In New York Proposed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — Spokesmen for the television industry proposed today that the government have its official demonstration of a proposed new color television system in New York City Oct. 15.

The plan was outlined at a conference between members of the National Television System Committee, which has developed the new color operation, and members of the new Federal Communications Commission staff. It followed a recent call from FCC for an early official test looking to some final commission action.

Daniel B. Smith, NTSC vice president, said the proposed Oct. 15 tests from New York City transmitters would involve a viewing of the telecasts by the commission at a site on Long Island, possibly the Homestead Hotel at Kew Gardens.

Bermuda Faces Sixth Hurricane

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 18 (AP)—Bermudans mopping up after last night's blow from hurricane Edna got word late today that another hurricane is heading this way on Edna's course and may strike Sunday. The new one would be Bermuda's sixth of the season.

At 5 p.m., hurricane No. 6 was estimated to be 36 hours away. At that time Edna, No. 5, was circling on to the northeast toward the major Atlantic shipping lines.

A shortage of cement was reported hampering repairs necessary to shore up against a new blow in the wake of Edna, which left a tangle of wreckage over the island.

Trees and shrubbery suffered, especially in the east end of the British colony. Banana trees, avacado pear trees and many citrus trees were flattened. Some roofs were swept away by Edna and many electric power wires fell.

Only three persons are known to have been injured, none critically.

Two Maryland Youths Killed In Auto Crash

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va., Sept. 18 (AP)—A freak accident involving a car and a truck last night killed two Maryland youths and injured three other persons, two of them seriously.

Dead were Harry E. Greenwalt, 13, of Sandy Hook, Md., and Donald Dunn, 18, of Knoxville, Md.

General Says Russians Flew MIGs In Korea

SEOUL, Saturday, Sept. 19 (AP)—Lt. Gen. S. E. Anderson today said Russian pilots flew MIG15 jets in all Russian unit formations against American Sabre jet pilots during the Korean War.

The U. S. 5th Air Force chief also said in an interview that Russian pilots flew 425 of the Russian-built jet planes in the Communist air force now operating in the North Korean-Manchuria area.

Allies Tell Reds They Stand Pat On Parley Setup

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—The United States and its allies in Korea told the Communists in a second note today they are still firmly opposed to bringing neutrals into the Korean peace conference.

The 16 U. N. members which fought with South Korea against the Reds also prodded Communist China and North Korea for an early reply as to the place and time of the conference. The U. N. wants the conferees to meet in San Francisco, Honolulu or Geneva, but the Reds so far have neglected to mention a place and time.

Not Sent Through Sweden

The views of the U. N. allies were in a formal communication sent by the United States as their agent. It was dispatched through Sweden, following the same route of the first and similar communication on Sept. 5.

The U. S. note said the resolutions approved by the U. N. Assembly last month, which limit the conference to belligerents plus Russia on the Red side, "speak for themselves and there is nothing further to add on the subject."

Dulles' Appeal Seconded

As the note went out, Foreign Secretary Richard G. Casey of Australia and Clifton Webb of New Zealand, seconded the appeal sounded yesterday by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for the Communists to make Korea a proving ground for their professed peaceful intentions. They also urged Russia to co-operate toward easing world tension.

Bidault Heads Council

Report McKeldin Being Considered For Cabinet Post

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Governor McKeldin is "among those" being considered in Washington as possible successors to Martin P. Durkin, recently resigned secretary of labor, the Baltimore News-Post said today.

The newspaper said its front-page story was based on "a report in circulation late Friday among local Republicans." It did not identify them.

McKeldin, en route to Milwaukee for a speaking engagement tomorrow, was not immediately available for comment.

Soviet Union Put On Spot By West

BONN, Germany, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Western Allies put Russia on the spot today by offering to lift their restrictions on free travel throughout all Germany Sept. 30, provided the Russians will do the same.

The United States, Britain and France took the initiative again in a month-long exchange over the issue.

If Russia matches the Allied action of abolishing interzonal passes, Germans will be able to move freely between Soviet-occupied East Germany and the Bonn republic for the first time since World War II. Only identity cards would be needed to cross the border splitting the nation.

The Allied offer was made in identical notes by the U. S. British and French high commissioners to Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir Semyenov.

Separated Siamese Twins Gain Ground

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 18 (AP)—Louisiana's famed Mouton Siamese twins, separated by painstaking surgery at Foundation Hospital, gained ground on death hour by hour today.

Hourly bulletins reiterated this theme:

"The twins spent a restful night. Their condition is good."

No responsible authority would yet say the 8-week-old daughters of Mayor and Mrs. Ashton Mouton of Lafayette, La., were out of danger.

But Dr. L. L. Weissmiller, director of Foundation Hospital, said: "the longer they continue to do well, the better their chances are. And it looks encouraging."

Czech Bride Who Escaped Reds And Husband Reunited

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Sept. 18 (AP)—A courageous Czech bride who fled her Communist-dominated homeland was reunited here today with her American husband in a silent embrace that melted away nearly four years of separation.

Only a quiet kiss could be heard after Mrs. Lila Cloud rushed into her husband's arms at Sioux City Municipal Airport. No words were spoken. They kissed four more times.

"I am very happy to meet my husband again and come to a country of freedom," she told a large civic delegation and relatives who were on hand to greet her. "I know very well what is freedom."

Leonard, 29, nearly as amazed as his pretty wife, said he was "extremely pleased to have her back."

Mrs. Cloud and seven other heroic Czechs escaped from behind the Iron Curtain in a home-made armored car last July 25.

Speakers at the reception hailed Mrs. Cloud as a symbol of the more than 100,000 persons who have escaped from behind the Iron Curtain.

"Thousands of persons still behind the Iron Curtain will know of this reception and take hope," said Roger Williams, a State Department official who accompanied Mrs. Cloud from New York.

Delinquency Probers Plan Hearings In 20 'Key' Cities

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Senators investigating the spread of juvenile delinquency in the United States decided tentatively today to hold public hearings in 20 "key" cities where they said the problem is acute.

They also appealed to state and local governments and private organizations to follow up the investigation with a wider and more effective prevention program.

Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ), chairman of the special Senate subcommittee making the probe, said he did not need financial help for the investigation itself but that public and private groups could assist in other ways.

Juvenile delinquency has increased 30 per cent since 1948, the subcommittee said in a statement issued after a closed session.

"As a nation we must find out what is causing this increasingly serious problem and what can be effectively done to prevent it," the senators said.

Cities listed as possible sites for hearings are Washington, New York, Boston, Newark, N. J., Philadelphia, Chicago, Milwaukee, Denver, Cleveland, Buffalo, Gary, Ind., Kansas City, Baltimore, Jacksonville, Fla., Memphis, Tenn., New Orleans, San Antonio, Tex., Oklahoma City, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

This afternoon, however, she indicated she may not go along with Haymes' plans to obtain a Nevada decree which would enable him to re-marry quickly. Her California divorce will not become final for a year.

She said she has decided to "think it over a while" before signing a waiver which would permit Haymes to win a divorce without contest.

After the divorce hearing the former Nora Eddington Flynn had indicated that she would not stand in Haymes' way.

Haymes had planned to wed Miss Hayworth in Las Vegas, Nev., Sept. 24. His attorney here, David Marcus, said Mrs. Haymes' switch makes Dick's plans indefinite. One of Haymes' attorneys was waiting for Mrs. Haymes to sign the waiver and take it by plane to Las Vegas.

Disney Film Honored

LONDON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Walt Disney's British-made film, Rob Roy, was selected today as this year's royal command performance picture.

The production, a live action film based on the Walter Scott novel, will be shown before Queen Elizabeth II and the royal family on Oct. 26 at a downtown movie palace.

Czech Bride Who Escaped Reds And Husband Reunited

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Sept. 18 (AP)—A courageous Czech bride who fled her Communist-dominated homeland was reunited here today with her American husband in a silent embrace that melted away nearly four years of separation.

Only a quiet kiss could be heard after Mrs. Lila Cloud rushed into her husband's arms at Sioux City Municipal Airport. No words were spoken. They kissed four more times.

"I am very happy to meet my husband again and come to a country of freedom," she told a large civic delegation and relatives who were on hand to greet her. "I know very well what is freedom."

Leonard, 29, nearly as amazed as his pretty wife, said he was "extremely pleased to have her back."

Mrs. Cloud and seven other heroic Czechs escaped from behind the Iron Curtain in a home-made armored car last July 25.

Speakers at the reception hailed Mrs. Cloud as a symbol of the more than 100,000 persons who have escaped from behind the Iron Curtain.

"Thousands of persons still behind the Iron Curtain will know of this reception and take hope," said Roger Williams, a State Department official who accompanied Mrs. Cloud from New York.

'Four Percenter' Figure Stripped Of All GOP Roles

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Republican leaders disclosed today that Warren L. Stephenson, central figure in a congressional "4 percenter" investigation, has been quietly stripped of all his party roles.

The dapper, smooth-talking Stephenson, who served as executive secretary of President Eisenhower's inaugural committee, acknowledged to a House Armed Services subcommittee last June that he offered, for a $2,000-a-month salary or a fee of 4 per cent, to try to obtain military contracts for a California firm.

Dropped From Committees

George L. Hart Jr., secretary of the District of Columbia Republican Committee, told newsmen today that Stephenson has been dropped from the 86-member GOP committee and from the party's local finance committee.

Hart said Stephenson has also been ousted as secretary of the District Republican Club. Hart is the club president.

In addition, White House officials disclosed that Stephenson no longer has a White House pass—a privilege he enjoyed while making arrangements for local celebrations in connection with President Eisenhower's inauguration.

Officials said Stephenson's temporary pass ran out on June 15.

Was "Indiscreet"

It was in June that the House subcommittee haled Stephenson behind closed doors to question him about alleged influence-peddling and drew from him a story of bargain rate "4 percenter" operations reminiscent of the "5 percenter" deals exposed during the Truman administration.

The House group finally made Stephenson's closed-door testimony public on Sept. 9. The transcript of the hearing quoted Stephenson as acknowledging he was "indiscreet" in spreading information about bids for building rocket launchers for the Navy.

Hershey Predicts Big Rise In Draft Calls Next Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, said tonight draft calls may soar to 50,000 or 60,000 a month after July of 1954.

The present rate is about 23,000 a month, which Hershey said would probably be maintained until the end of this fiscal year, ending next June 30.

"After July 1, 1954, I expect material increases ... perhaps as high as 50,000 to 60,000 a month," he said during a radio interview.

TV Color Test Oct. 15 In New York Proposed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — Spokesmen for the television industry proposed today that the government have its official demonstration of a proposed new color television system in New York City Oct. 15.

The plan was outlined at a conference between members of the National Television System Committee, which has developed the new color operation, and members of the new Federal Communications Commission staff. It followed a recent call from FCC for an early official test looking to some final commission action.

Daniel B. Smith, NTSC vice president, said the proposed Oct. 15 tests from New York City transmitters would involve a viewing of the telecasts by the commission at a site on Long Island, possibly the Homestead Hotel at Kew Gardens.

Summerfield Rips Demos As 'Communist Coddlers'

Sen. Ferguson Hits 'Radical Eggheads' In Democrat Party

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield ripped the Democrats tonight as Communist coddlers who installed government by crisis, and called President Eisenhower a man of destiny who brought a "clearer and cleaner" atmosphere to Washington.

The GOP, in party conferences, marched against the Democrats in full scale counter-attack. There were twin objectives — meeting head-on Democratic charges of broken promises, and marshalling their forces behind Eisenhower's personal popularity to strengthen their shaky hold on control of Congress in the 1954 elections.

Ferguson Looses Barrage

Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, raked the Democrats as "irresponsible" and said "radical eggheads" control their party. Summerfield kept the barrage rolling on this opening day of a 2-day Republican rally.

The postmaster general praised Eisenhower — who will make a brief, informal talk to a party delegation tomorrow at a suburban airport—as "our greatest natural resource," our "greatest deterrent to World War III."

"His election has been a classic example," he said in his prepared address, "of the time and the man meeting head-on at a strategic moment in history. . .

GOP Answer To Demo Rally

"President Eisenhower believes passionately that our great and powerful America of today is pregnant with an even greater and more powerful America of tomorrow—an America that must fulfill its destiny of leadership in the community of nations in a world where all men will be brothers and where all nationalities will live in mutual respect—with pride in the present and with boundless faith in the future."

The Republican rallies of women from Midwestern and Southern states and state chairmen from Midwestern and mountain territory are the GOP answer to a national Democratic rally here the first two days of this week. Aside from speeches, the sessions were pretty much routine affairs given over to vote-getting techniques and campaign organization problems.

Bermuda Faces Sixth Hurricane

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 18 (AP)—Bermudans mopping up after last night's blow from hurricane Edna got word late today that another hurricane is heading this way on Edna's course and may strike Sunday. The new one would be Bermuda's sixth of the season.

At 5 p.m., hurricane No. 6 was estimated to be 36 hours away. At that time Edna, No. 5, was circling on to the northeast toward the major Atlantic shipping lines.

A shortage of cement was reported hampering repairs necessary to shore up against a new blow in the wake of Edna, which left a tangle of wreckage over the island.

Trees and shrubbery suffered, especially in the east end of the British colony. Banana trees, avacado pear trees and many citrus trees were flattened. Some roofs were swept away by Edna and many electric power wires fell.

Only three persons are known to have been injured, none critically.

Two Maryland Youths Killed In Auto Crash

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va., Sept. 18 (AP)—A freak accident involving a car and a truck last night killed two Maryland youths and injured three other persons, two of them seriously.

Dead were Harry E. Greenwalt, 13, of Sandy Hook, Md., and Donald Dunn, 18, of Knoxville, Md.

General Says Russians Flew MIGs In Korea

SEOUL, Saturday, Sept. 19 (AP)—Lt. Gen. S. E. Anderson today said Russian pilots flew MIG15 jets in all Russian unit formations against American Sabre jet pilots during the Korean War.

The U. S. 5th Air Force chief also said in an interview that Russian pilots flew 425 of the Russian-built jet planes in the Communist air force now operating in the North Korean-Manchuria area.

Seeks U. S. Asylum

Allies Tell Reds They Stand Pat On Parley Setup

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—The United States and its allies in Korea told the Communists in a second note today they are still firmly opposed to bringing neutrals into the Korean peace conference.

The 16 U. N. members which fought with South Korea against the Reds also prodded Communist China and North Korea for an early reply as to the place and time of the conference. The U. N. wants the conferees to meet in San Francisco, Honolulu or Geneva, but the Reds so far have neglected to mention a place and time.

Not Sent Through Sweden

The views of the U. N. allies were in a formal communication sent by the United States as their agent. It was dispatched through Sweden, following the same route of the first and similar communication on Sept. 5.

The U. S. note said the resolutions approved by the U. N. Assembly last month, which limit the conference to belligerents plus Russia on the Red side, "speak for themselves and there is nothing further to add on the subject."

Dulles' Appeal Seconded

As the note went out, Foreign Secretary Richard G. Casey of Australia and Clifton Webb of New Zealand, seconded the appeal sounded yesterday by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for the Communists to make Korea a proving ground for their professed peaceful intentions. They also urged Russia to co-operate toward easing world tension.

Bidault Heads Council

PARIS, Sept 18 (AP) — French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault today became chairman of the North Atlantic Council.

He succeeded Ole Bjorn Kraft, Danish foreign minister who had been chairman during the past year. The job rotates annually by countries in alphabetical order.

Report McKeldin Being Considered For Cabinet Post

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Governor McKeldin is "among those" being considered in Washington as possible successors to Martin P. Durkin, recently resigned secretary of labor, the Baltimore News-Post said today.

The newspaper said its front-page story was based on "a report in circulation late Friday among local Republicans." It did not identify them.

McKeldin, en route to Milwaukee for a speaking engagement tomorrow, was not immediately available for comment.

Soviet Union Put On Spot By West

BONN, Germany, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Western Allies put Russia on the spot today by offering to lift their restrictions on free travel throughout all Germany Sept. 30, provided the Russians will do the same.

The United States, Britain and France took the initiative again in a month-long exchange over the issue.

If Russia matches the Allied action of abolishing interzonal passes, Germans will be able to move freely between Soviet-occupied East Germany and the Bonn republic for the first time since World War II. Only identity cards would be needed to cross the border splitting the nation.

The Allied offer was made in identical notes by the U. S. British and French high commissioners to Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir Semyenov.

Delinquency Probers Plan Hearings In 20 'Key' Cities

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Senators investigating the spread of juvenile delinquency in the United States decided tentatively today to hold public hearings in 20 "key" cities where they said the problem is acute.

They also appealed to state and local governments and private organizations to follow up the investigation with a wider and more effective prevention program.

Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ), chairman of the special Senate subcommittee making the probe, said he did not need financial help for the investigation itself but that public and private groups could assist in other ways.

Juvenile delinquency has increased 30 per cent since 1948, the subcommittee said in a statement issued after a closed session.

"As a nation we must find out what is causing this increasingly serious problem and what can be effectively done to prevent it," the senators said.

Cities listed as possible sites for hearings are Washington, New York, Boston, Newark, N. J., Philadelphia, Chicago, Milwaukee, Denver, Cleveland, Buffalo, Gary, Ind., Kansas City, Baltimore, Jacksonville, Fla., Memphis, Tenn., New Orleans, San Antonio, Tex., Oklahoma City, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Gray, Anti-Red Diplomat Asks Asylum In U. S.

Dr. Korowicz Says Life Is 'Nightmare' Behind Iron Curtain

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—A Polish diplomat, desperate for freedom after night marish years behind the Iron Curtain, sought American asylum today, after a dramatic, secret flight from his United Nations delegation.

"Life in Poland was a nightmare," said Dr. Marek Korowicz, 50, a Catholic and a brilliant former professor of international law at Krakow University.

A gaunt, gray, sharp-featured man, he was chosen Sept. 6 as first alternate of the Polish delegation to the U. N. He arrived in this country just four days ago.

Idea Born 12 Days Ago

The idea of escape, Korowicz said, was born 12 days ago when he first learned he was to come to the U. S.

Korowicz, who has no family in Poland, nearly talked himself out of the U. N. assignment before it dawned on him that here at last was a chance to escape the yoke of communism. Then he made his decision.

"I kept my decision a closely guarded secret even from my best friends," the diplomat added.

Late today, however, he shared the secret with the world, pledging himself to work "for the liberation of my homeland and all peoples oppressed by Soviet communism."

His statements were being broadcast to Poland by Radio Free Europe, part of an organization that offers assistance to Communist exiles.

Dulles' Words Warm Heart

On Tuesday, not many hours before his escape, Korowicz sat in the U. N. General Assembly, outwardly just another grim-faced Iron Curtain attendant at the opening session.

Forty-eight hours later, however, a free man and with his emotions no longer held in rein, he found his heart warmed by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' Thursday speech to the same Assembly.

Korowicz was the fourth Polish national to flee to the West in six months. Two Polish jet fliers and a Polish interpreter in Korea previously sought asylum in America.

Soviet U. N. Delegate Jacob A. Malik was asked for comment on Korowicz' break with his Communist-controlled homeland:

President Ends Vacation Today

DENVER, Sept. 18 (AP) — This was packing day at the summer White House. President Eisenhower ends his work-and-play Colorado vacation tomorrow and flies back to Washington.

The chief executive and Mrs. Eisenhower will leave here aboard the presidential plane Columbine at 9 a.m., MST, with a brief stop in Chicago scheduled en route to the capital.

At the Glenview Naval Air Station in Chicago, the President will greet a delegation of Republican leaders who are attending a pair of GOP rallies in that city.

The President and the first lady will be joined in Chicago by their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, and his family. John's wife, Barbara, and their three children—David, 5, Barbara Ann, 3 and Susan, 1—will be guests at the White House for a few days.

The major recently returned from Korea. He visited his parents here in Denver last week and then went on to Chicago for a visit with his wife's mother and father, Col. and Mrs. Percy Thompson.

The presidential party is scheduled to arrive in Washington at 6:30 p.m., EDT, tomorrow. The President came to Denver six weeks ago. He has lived at the home of Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, and maintained a busy office at Lowry Air Force Base.

Gamma Globulin Distribution Cut Sharply In State

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP) — The State Health Department today issued regulations sharply cutting down distribution of its rapidly shrinking gamma globulin supply, used to help prevent polio.

Effective immediately, said Health Director Robert H. Riley, the innoculation material will be available only to "household contacts as provided in the original state plan for distribution."

Household contacts, as defined by health authorities, include children within a household under 18 and pregnant women directly exposed to polio.

The department, allotted 3,000 average doses of gamma globulin in its 1953 supply, now has about 300 doses on hand, a spokesman said. The average dose is 10 cubic centimeters.

"Simple arithmetic," Dr. Riley said, "applied to the supply and demand dictates that the very limited amount of gamma globulin be used for household contacts where it will be most effective."

"No epidemic exists," he added. "The risk of contracting paralytic poliomyelitis is still far smaller than for many other health risks to which the adult and child populations are exposed."

Dr. Riley said the health department recently relaxed its resulations for distribution of the material because of "a belief that the supply would permit wider distribution and the desire of the health department to make available to the public all of its supply."

However, he added, the demand bit too deeply into the supply and "in one area of the state there are requests for gamma globulin for school children which represent 166 times the total available supply for the whole state."

September Polio Cases In Md. Double '52 Mark

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—There have been more than twice as many cases of polio in Maryland this month than there were in September 1952, State Health Department records show.

But a spokesman was quick to point out that polio outbreaks have not reached epidemic proportions in any part of the state.

Moreover, the proportion of deaths from the disease is smaller this year, said Dr. Perry F. Prather, deputy director of the department. He added, however:

"Naturally, despite this, we appreciate that parents are going to be worried by polio cases in their neighborhood."

Reports show 116 cases of polio in the state thus far in September, compared with 52 in September, 1952. In each month, three deaths occurred.

Sheaffer Resigns His Commerce Dept. Post

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — Craig R. Sheaffer has resigned as assistant secretary of commerce and returned to his fountain pen business in the aftermath of a row over the merits of a battery additive known as AD-K2.

The Commerce Department disclosed tonight that Secretary Weeks today accepted Sheaffer's resignation, dated Sept. 15, "on the authority of the President."

Sheaffer made no mention of the AD-X2 episode, but he made it clear in his letter of resignation that his departure from the government after seven months was not according to his original plans.

"I had expected to stay until next year," he said.

President Eisenhower appointed Sheaffer, president of the Sheaffer Fountain Pen Co., as assistant secretary for domestic affairs last February.

LONDON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Colette (Legs) Marchand, the tall, blonde French ballerina who won screen fame as the streetwalker in "Moulin Rouge," was married to orchestra conductor Jacques Bazire in a hush-hush civil ceremony today.

Jews Mark Yom Kippur

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Sept. 18 (AP)—Jews throughout the world joined tonight in observing Yom Kippur, the day of atonement ending the Jewish high holy days.

Their heads covered as a sign of reverence, Israeli Jews intoned Kol Nidre (Hebrew for "All Vows,") the first prayer of sunset-to-sunset services in the synagogues. They were clad in white and barefoot or in canvas slippers.

Many of the worshippers will not leave until the first stars appear Saturday evening. Others may attend only during the most solemn hours. The orthodox fast throughout the period.

Worship was arranged even in the jails. In places where there were less than 10 convicts—the minimum traditionally needed for a Jewish divine service—policemen stepped in to make up the number, as they did at Rosh Hashanah (the Jewish New Year) 10 days ago.

Auriol Spurns Andorra Chief

ANDORRA, Sept. 18 (AP) — France's President Vincent Auriol, acting as co-prince of this tiny Pyrenees nation, told its government today that he no longer recognizes its president and vice president.

Auriol sent the message through his viguier (envoy) in the capital here. It was received in the 16th century stone Maison de la Vallee by the president of the council, 73-year-old Francois Cairat, who had been expecting this blow for the past 48 hours.

Auriol declared Cairat and Vice President Roc Rossell had been guilty "of a very evident lack of good faith" in negotiating a problem which has created tension between Andorra and Auriol, as representative of France, for the past three months.

There was no immediate reaction from either of the officials but Andorrans regard the move as one of the most critical in their more than 700 years of independence between France and Spain.

44 Mau Maus To Be Executed For Massacre

NAIROBI, Kenya, Sept. 18 (AP)—Forty-four Kikuyu tribesmen were sentenced to death and four others to prison terms by this British colony's Supreme Court today for the Mau Mau's Lari massacre.

The 48 were charged specifically with killing a 1-year-old child who was among 150 natives, loyal to the British, hacked and burned to death by the anti-white Mau Mau secret society in a night raid on the village of Lari March 26. A 49th defendant was acquitted.

Similar trials have been going on since last May. The verdicts today, delivered while the court was sitting at the town of Githunguri, increased the total convicted to 105.

"I do not know whether to look for a human motive in this crime or to describe it as an animal urge," the presiding judge said. "The raiders were possessed of a spirit of atavistic reversion to Kikuyu tribal custom. The whole massacre was just a blank, uninteresting barbarism."

Most of the victims of the mass killing, the greatest single terroristic outburst since the nationalist-minded society launched a campaign in 1952 to drive white men from Kenya, were Kikuyu home guardsmen or government officials and their families.

21 State Champs Vie For Plowing Crown

AUGUSTA, Wis., Sept. 18 (AP)—The world series of plowing will be held here tomorrow and if it rains the loudest complaints won't come from the contestants.

The 21 state champions here for the national finals agreed that the ground is just too dry for first class plowing. Frankly, they hoped for a nice, all-night rain followed by fair weather.

Bertha Adkins May Run For Congress

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—Speculation increased today that Bertha Adkins is considering tossing her hat into the race for Congress from Maryland.

Miss Adkins, head of the Women's Division of the Republican National Committee, is here conducting a Midwestern regional conference of Republican women.

There are reports that Rep. Edward T. Miller, Republican from Miss Adkins' home district, is slated for a judgeship.

Asked for comment, Miss Adkins, who also is Maryland national committeewoman, said she was "not planning at the present time to run" but conceded the idea is interesting.

Fight In Kremlin Seen Continuing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Voice of America declared today the naming of Nikita S. Krushchev as secretary of Russia's Communist party points up "two situations extremely dangerous to the security and permanence of the Communist regime."

The U. S. overseas broadcasting service said in a program beamed to the Soviet Union that Krushcheve was "rewarded with the top party post at the very same time he confesses that the program of (farm) collectivization which he helped carry out was a total and crushing failure."

Krushchev, a long-time leader in the forced collectivization of Russian farming, recently succeeded to the post of party secretary, one of the offices held by the late Premier Stalin.

"This serves to remind us," said the Voice of America, "that the struggle for personal power in the Kremlin is still on, for the role of party secretary has long been a stepping-stone to absolute power in Soviet history."

TV Gives Bank's Customers Quick Look At Account

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — The staid banking industry came up with a new use for television today — showing you how much money you have on deposit.

It's all part of the world's first banking TV system, set up in the historic Riggs National Bank across the street from the White House.

John W. Snyder, an old hand at banking, dropped in for a special press demonstration of the system installed by the Radio Corporation of America.

"I've never seen anything like it," he remarked.

Snyder, secretary of the Treasury under former President Harry Truman, is now an official of the Willys-Overland Motor Co.

Whether the TV system would be valuable in most other banks is problematical, bank officials said, but they said it's a big help here where the bank's bookkeeping department is in a different building from the main office.

Here's the way it operates:

You're a depositor and before you write out a check, you want to find out whether it will bounce. So you go up to J. Byron Brooks assistant cashier, and ask him for a look at your account.

He picks up a phone and says, "Lucy, put on Mr. Smith's ledger." Then he invites you to take a seat next to him. Right in front, you see a 10-inch TV screen and in a moment on the screen appears your bank statement. Lucy, in the bank's bookkeeping department a block away, has pulled out your ledger and turned the TV camera on it.

Gamma Globulin Distribution Cut Sharply In State

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP) — The State Health Department today issued regulations sharply cutting down distribution of its rapidly shrinking gamma globulin supply, used to help prevent polio.

Dr. Riley said the health department recently relaxed its resulations for distribution of the material because of "a belief that the supply would permit wider distribution and the desire of the health department to make available to the public all of its supply."

However, he added, the demand bit too deeply into the supply and "in one area of the state there are requests for gamma globulin for school children which represent 166 times the total available supply for the whole state."

September Polio Cases In Md. Double '52 Mark

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—There have been more than twice as many cases of polio in Maryland this month than there were in September 1952, State Health Department records show.

But a spokesman was quick to point out that polio outbreaks have not reached epidemic proportions in any part of the state.

Moreover, the proportion of deaths from the disease is smaller this year, said Dr. Perry F. Prather, deputy director of the department. He added, however:

"Naturally, despite this, we appreciate that parents are going to be worried by polio cases in their neighborhood."

Reports show 116 cases of polio in the state thus far in September, compared with 52 in September, 1952. In each month, three deaths occurred.

Sheaffer Resigns His Commerce Dept. Post

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — Craig R. Sheaffer has resigned as assistant secretary of commerce and returned to his fountain pen business in the aftermath of a row over the merits of a battery additive known as AD-K2.

The Commerce Department disclosed tonight that Secretary Weeks today accepted Sheaffer's resignation, dated Sept. 15, "on the authority of the President."

Sheaffer made no mention of the AD-X2 episode, but he made it clear in his letter of resignation that his departure from the government after seven months was not according to his original plans.

"I had expected to stay until next year," he said.

President Eisenhower appointed Sheaffer, president of the Sheaffer Fountain Pen Co., as assistant secretary for domestic affairs last February.

LONDON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Colette (Legs) Marchand, the tall, blonde French ballerina who won screen fame as the streetwalker in "Moulin Rouge," was married to orchestra conductor Jacques Bazire in a hush-hush civil ceremony today.

Jews Mark Yom Kippur

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Sept. 18 (AP)—Jews throughout the world joined tonight in observing Yom Kippur, the day of atonement ending the Jewish high holy days.

Their heads covered as a sign of reverence, Israeli Jews intoned Kol Nidre (Hebrew for "All Vows,") the first prayer of sunset-to-sunset services in the synagogues. They were clad in white and barefoot or in canvas slippers.

Many of the worshippers will not leave until the first stars appear Saturday evening. Others may attend only during the most solemn hours. The orthodox fast throughout the period.

Worship was arranged even in the jails. In places where there were less than 10 convicts—the minimum traditionally needed for a Jewish divine service—policemen stepped in to make up the number, as they did at Rosh Hashanah (the Jewish New Year) 10 days ago.

Auriol Spurns Andorra Chief

ANDORRA, Sept. 18 (AP) — France's President Vincent Auriol, acting as co-prince of this tiny Pyrenees nation, told its government today that he no longer recognizes its president and vice president.

Auriol sent the message through his viguier (envoy) in the capital here. It was received in the 16th century stone Maison de la Vallee by the president of the council, 73-year-old Francois Cairat, who had been expecting this blow for the past 48 hours.

Auriol declared Cairat and Vice President Roc Rossell had been guilty "of a very evident lack of good faith" in negotiating a problem which has created tension between Andorra and Auriol, as representative of France, for the past three months.

There was no immediate reaction from either of the officials but Andorrans regard the move as one of the most critical in their more than 700 years of independence between France and Spain.

44 Mau Maus To Be Executed For Massacre

NAIROBI, Kenya, Sept. 18 (AP)—Forty-four Kikuyu tribesmen were sentenced to death and four others to prison terms by this British colony's Supreme Court today for the Mau Mau's Lari massacre.

The 48 were charged specifically with killing a 1-year-old child who was among 150 natives, loyal to the British, hacked and burned to death by the anti-white Mau Mau secret society in a night raid on the village of Lari March 26. A 49th defendant was acquitted.

Similar trials have been going on since last May. The verdicts today, delivered while the court was sitting at the town of Githunguri, increased the total convicted to 105.

"I do not know whether to look for a human motive in this crime or to describe it as an animal urge," the presiding judge said. "The raiders were possessed of a spirit of atavistic reversion to Kikuyu tribal custom. The whole massacre was just a blank, uninteresting barbarism."

Most of the victims of the mass killing, the greatest single terroristic outburst since the nationalist-minded society launched a campaign in 1952 to drive white men from Kenya, were Kikuyu home guardsmen or government officials and their families.

21 State Champs Vie For Plowing Crown

AUGUSTA, Wis., Sept. 18 (AP)—The world series of plowing will be held here tomorrow and if it rains the loudest complaints won't come from the contestants.

The 21 state champions here for the national finals agreed that the ground is just too dry for first class plowing. Frankly, they hoped for a nice, all-night rain followed by fair weather.

Bertha Adkins May Run For Congress

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—Speculation increased today that Bertha Adkins is considering tossing her hat into the race for Congress from Maryland.

Miss Adkins, head of the Women's Division of the Republican National Committee, is here conducting a Midwestern regional conference of Republican women.

There are reports that Rep. Edward T. Miller, Republican from Miss Adkins' home district, is slated for a judgeship.

Asked for comment, Miss Adkins, who also is Maryland national committeewoman, said she was "not planning at the present time to run" but conceded the idea is interesting.

Fight In Kremlin Seen Continuing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Voice of America declared today the naming of Nikita S. Krushchev as secretary of Russia's Communist party points up "two situations extremely dangerous to the security and permanence of the Communist regime."

The U. S. overseas broadcasting service said in a program beamed to the Soviet Union that Krushcheve was "rewarded with the top party post at the very same time he confesses that the program of (farm) collectivization which he helped carry out was a total and crushing failure."

Krushchev, a long-time leader in the forced collectivization of Russian farming, recently succeeded to the post of party secretary, one of the offices held by the late Premier Stalin.

"This serves to remind us," said the Voice of America, "that the struggle for personal power in the Kremlin is still on, for the role of party secretary has long been a stepping-stone to absolute power in Soviet history."

TV Gives Bank's Customers Quick Look At Account

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — The staid banking industry came up with a new use for television today — showing you how much money you have on deposit.

It's all part of the world's first banking TV system, set up in the historic Riggs National Bank across the street from the White House.

John W. Snyder, an old hand at banking, dropped in for a special press demonstration of the system installed by the Radio Corporation of America.

"I've never seen anything like it," he remarked.

Snyder, secretary of the Treasury under former President Harry Truman, is now an official of the Willys-Overland Motor Co.

Whether the TV system would be valuable in most other banks is problematical, bank officials said, but they said it's a big help here where the bank's bookkeeping department is in a different building from the main office.

Here's the way it operates:

You're a depositor and before you write out a check, you want to find out whether it will bounce. So you go up to J. Byron Brooks assistant cashier, and ask him for a look at your account.

He picks up a phone and says, "Lucy, put on Mr. Smith's ledger."

Then he invites you to take a seat next to him. Right in front, you see a 10-inch TV screen and in a moment on the screen appears your bank statement. Lucy, in the bank's bookkeeping department a block away, has pulled out your ledger and turned the TV camera on it.

Republicans Girding Loins

The 1954 congressional campaign is getting away early, and with a considerable furore. Republicans are countering the Demcoratic shindig in Chicago with a two-day planning session of their own which ends today. Behind all the shouting? The present precarious balance of the two parties in the Senate and the House.

With two vacancies in the Senate, the division is Republicans, 46; Democrats, 47; Independent, 1 (Morse). Vice President Nixon's tie-breaking vote must of course be added to the Republican side. And Senator Morse has announced that he will continue until 1954 to vote with the GOP on organization of the Senate.

The division in the House is Republicans, 218; Democrats, 212; Independent, 1; Vacant, 4. Of the vacant seats, three are in normally Republican territory.

In 1954, 35 senatorial seats are to be contested. Of these, 21 are now held by Democrats; 12 by Republicans. Republicans are unlikely to contest very vigorously nine of the Senate seats now held by Democrats in states of the Solid South. Aside from these states, Democrats are up for re-election in Colorado, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Montana, Minnesota, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Rhode Island, West Virginia, Wyoming.

Republicans are up for re-election in California (Kuchel for the unexpired term of Nixon) Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oregon, South Dakota. And Republicans will try to hold the now vacant seats of the late Senator Taft and Senator Tobey.

Democrats whose seats may be in danger are Johnson of Colorado, Frear of Delaware, Douglas of Illinois, Gillette of Iowa, Humphrey of Minnesota, Murray of Montana, Anderson of New Mexico, and Hunt of Wyoming. These states went Republican for President and a senator — or for President and a governor—in 1952.

Republicans most likely to run into trouble are Saltonstall of Massachusetts (where Lodge was defeated in 1952), Cooper of Kentucky (who won a narrow victory to fill an unexpired term in 1952), Ferguson of Michigan (if popular Governor Williams opposes him).

In the House the Democrats would appear to have their best chance of picking up seats in North Carolina and Virginia, where Republicans in 1952 elected one and three representatives respectively. In 1952 Democratic candidates for the House won 262,468 more popular votes than did Republican candidates. Discounting the Solid South, the Republican House Campaign Committee has computed that in districts where Democrats opposed Republicans, the Republican House lead was 3,259,321, though the Eisenhower plurality over Stevenson was 6,616,233.

History—And Whitewash

History written within a few years of the important events it chronicles is liable to bias. But it is an arduous undertaking to revise the accepted concept of an important character after more than 450 years. That is what the Company of Memories in England is trying to do, as evidenced by this memorial advertisement in three London newspapers:

"Plantagenet—at the Battle of Bosworth, August 22, 1485, there fell fighting bravely Richard III of England, king, statesman, soldier, gentleman. Deeply mourned."

It is the belief of this group that Richard did not send his nephews, who stood between him and the throne, to be murdered in the Tower, but that Henry VII, victor at Bosworth, did, and blamed it on dead Richard of the crooked back. This has the appearance of applying a coat of whitewash to the man accounted the wickedest among several wicked English kings, including that truly great monarch, but serial-polygamist, Henry VIII.

Careful historians have to this day believed the story about Richard, and Shakespeare did more than a century later when he made him the central figure of one of his great tragedies. Considerable lapse of time, if not too great to permit reexamination of fact, can change perspective with regard to national figures.

Role Of Business

In discussion of "influence peddling" in Washington, much has been said about the readiness of business to take advantage of tips on prospective government contracts, including payment of a fee to the tipster. Yet in a notorious present case, the manufacturer who was approached turned down the tipster and reported his offer to the authorities.

If more contractors who are approached took such patriotic action, the public interest would gain and so would the repute of business. The present case concerns the activities of a prominent Washington eager beaver, who rode President Eisenhower's campaign train last autumn and helped stage his inauguration.

According to sworn evidence presented to a congressional committee, this man obtained secret facts as to the prices which various firms had bid on a contract for Navy rocket launchers from a tipster. He then approached a West Coast manufacturer and offered to help him get a major share of the Navy contract for a four per cent fee. The manufacturer reported the offer to the Navy.

The government, in most cases, learns the facts about influence peddling less from its own vigilance than from congressional investigators. The surest safeguard could come from business itself.

A Kid's Game?

One of the better sports photographs lately was the shot of a pitcher of one of the innumerable Little League teams studying his catcher's signa' with weighty concentration. The payoff was in the fact that a large bubble was hanging out of his mouth, indicating the presence of a big wad of bubble gum as insurance against nervousness.

In a considerably more mature atmosphere one afternoon recently at Yankee Stadium in New York, the Yankees were playing the Chicago White Sox. Although the Yanks were leading the Sox by a comfortable 14-game margin in the league standings, the New Yorkers were taking no chances on blowing this one.

Casey Stengel, the Yankees' manager, was wearing a path in the concrete floor of the home dugout, and the score was 0-0. At about this point, someone in the press box looked at Centerfielder Mickey Mantle, the 20-year-old addition to the Yankees, gave another look and whooped. Out of Mantle's mouth was pulsing an unmistakable bubble gum bubble. A photographer with a telephoto lens on his camera recorded the scene for posterity.

Protecting Health Of School Children

Many communities have well established school health programs. New York City, for example, hires four full time pediatricians, 250 to 278 part time physicians, and the equivalent of 375 full time nurses to attend the city's 1¼ million elementary and high school children. School health services do not offer treatment; the work is aimed at detecting the child in need of care and seeing that he receives proper medical attention.

The system in New York City is typical of others existing in many parts of the country. In New York, all children entering school are required by law to have a physical examination. The parents are given a choice of taking the youngster to the family or the school doctor so that no one has an excuse, financial or otherwise, for not co-operating. When the child reaches sixth grade a second examination is in order and a third checkup is given on entering high school.

But physical examination is only part of school health services. Children who appear to be ill or who state they are not feeling well are sent to the nurse by the teacher. This is one of the most time consuming features of the job because every year there are about 500,000 morning inspections of children with suspected illnesses. Because the pupil cannot return without being checked, each year there are another one-half million followup reports on current and completed health care.

The teacher is responsible for uncovering bordering cases and some are given special instructions on the signs and symptoms of a variety of common childhood diseases. The nurse also co-operates by having a weekly meeting with the teachers to review the health record of each boy and girl in the class. In this way the child who is not doing well or whose temperament or personality has changed is singled out and sent for examination. In many instances these are the first indications of anemia, malnutrition, nephritis, tuberculosis, rheumatic fever, or other disorders that might go along for several months before being detected by the usual means. Doubtful cases are referred to the school physician for screening, and when examination discloses some disorder the youngster is sent to the family physician for treatment.

Nurses and physicians dealing with high school students have different problems. The various phases of adolescence enter the picture as well as factors related to growth and development. If a girl of 15 is small and underdeveloped she is likely to do poor school work when she cannot understand why she is not on a par with her classmates who have matured at an earlier date. Tuberculosis also must be considered in this age group as well as acne, appendicitis, and hernia. Participation in athletics also is important because some teenagers have defects that might be aggravated by competitive sports. If these abnormalities are overlooked, damage may follow overexertion.

BEER IN HOT WEATHER

E. W. writes: In cooler weather I can drink a few glasses of beer without feeling any effects but in the summer time one glass goes to my head immediately. Have you any explanation for this occurrence?

REPLY

Scientific work has shown that alcoholic drinks are more intoxicating in hot weather because the chemical is absorbed almost immediately by the nervous tissue before the body has a chance to burn it.

HOW LONG?

I. W. writes: I have heard varying reports on how long after cancer strikes it becomes fatal. Can you give me some information along this line?

REPLY

There are many types of cancer and some grow faster than others. The highly malignant varieties may kill in less than four months; others proceed so slowly that 10 years may elapse before they become disabling.

BUTTERMILK AND CALCIUM DEPOSITS

L. M. C. writes: My husband likes to drink a quart of buttermilk a day. Will this cause calcium deposits leading to bursitis or hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

No.

JUMPY

A. E. writes: What makes a person's arms and legs jump during complete relaxation, especially at night?

REPLY

The most common cause is muscle irritability resulting from overactivity, overstretching, nervousness, or too much coffee or tobacco.

U. S. Army Captain Tells Of Two Years In Communist Prison; Life Of Korean Children Is More Difficult Than That Of U. N. POW's.

WASHINGTON — I don't often publish other people's letters in this column. The reason is that editors prefer that I write about Washington. However, here is a letter from an American Army captain just released from a Korean Communist prison camp, which I believe is going to be an exception to the rule.

The letter is from Capt. Roger C. White, of Monroe, La., commander of Company C, 38th Infantry, 2nd Division, who got out of a Nazi prison camp in 1945, and has just served two years in a prison camp near the Yalu River. Between wars he was elected to the Louisiana Legislature.

Captain White gets back to the U.S.A. just two days from today—Monday, September 21. I am purposely publishing his letter before he gets here, and I'll be interested in seeing—by the public response to his words—whether the rest of you agree that it is worth publishing. Anyway, under the dateline of Inchon, Korea, September 6, here it is:

"Dear Mr. Pearson:

"Please do me a favor, a big favor. Please either print this letter, or at least part of it, in your column.

"For 2½ years now I have been in this suffering little country which has had the very forces of hell attempting to obliterate it from the earth. In the long months and years I spent in a little village on the Yalu, I became obsessed with the horror of what was going on—not only because of the civilians who of course suffered, but also because of the soldiers who were dying. I wanted to be out not only to be free, but in order that I might be sending food to these poor miserable people. The plight of the North Korean children moved me just as much. How I wished that I could have bought candy, food, and toys for them. Suffering children are more than I can bear to think of.

People-To-People Friendship

"I first contacted you in 1948 about the idea of correspondence between citizens of one country with another in order to promote international friendship. I began a correspondence between Monroe, La., and Ingolstadt, Germany, which grew until over 500 people were corresponding. Also, we held a contest with prizes offered for the best letters from school children. We received over 1,200. The reason I had picked Ingolstadt was because it was the town from which I flew after being liberated from a prison camp in April 1945.

A Soldier's $500

"Yesterday I was among the prisoners repatriated to our side after 27 months in North Korea. The warm-hearted welcome we received from our countrymen plus the joyous emotion of being free again evoked feelings which were almost impossible to describe. We knew we would soon return to our beloved country and to our families whom we have missed so terribly over the years. We return to a country of plenty, a country which has never been scathed by enemy bombs, where civilians have never suffered the horror of modern warfare. We return to a country of freedom where children live in peace and happiness.

"But what do we leave? A country which was poverty-striken to begin with, where the people barely existed. And now after three years of war, it has been devastated from one end to the other. Millions have died, among them 300,000 children. Today in South Korea there are hundreds of thousands barely keeping alive.

"Today after eating a hearty meal of steak and finishing up with ice cream, I wandered out on the streets. There I saw a sight which brought pity to my heart. A thin child of not more than seven, with the inevitable little baby sister or brother strapped to her back, was digging in a garbage can for food. The starved look on her face would have brought tears from a man of stone. As I looked at her I realized that she represented so many, many more thousands—starved, hopeless. And then I thought of the well-fed babies at home who have all the love and care possible to give them. And I thought of how I had taken my meal for granted, as if we should ever take any of our blessing for granted!

"I am enclosing a $500 check made out to CARE, New York City, which I wish you would forward. I wrote you in February 1951, several months before I was captured. I begged that you urge the generous, warm-hearted American public to likewise send whatever they can for food parcels to Korea. Address: CARE, NYC. There are literally hundreds of thousands whom you reach who could afford the $10 for a food parcel which will keep a Korean child alive for two to three weeks. I urge them not to think twice! Send the money that will keep these children from dying!

"As I said it may be presumptuous for me to ask you to publish this. But I do hope you will be able to help.

"Sincerely yours,

"ROGER C. WHITE, JR.

"Captain, United States Army

"P. S. I sail tomorrow for God's country, expecting to reach Frisco on the 21st."

NOTE—Captain White enclosed his check, which I am sending to CARE, New York City. Five hundred dollars is a lot for a soldier to give out of a meagre pay check; and I know that a lot of other folks will want to show their appreciation of what he and his buddies have been doing by acting upon his suggestion, if possible by the time he gets home on Monday.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Donald Downes

The London "Sunday Chronicle" asked the question in big, bold type: "Just Who Did G-Man Hoover Fight in the War?" And the London "Sunday Times," in smaller type, says: "FBI Under Fire"; and the London "Daily Mirror," in enormous type, announces: "The G-Man Myth."

And so I turn to a book, published last month in London, entitled, "The Scarlet Thread—'Adventures in Wartime Espionage' "—by Donald Downes. Who is Donald Downes?

The alliterative name made me wonder whether it might not be a pseudonym, but no! There is actually such a person. He was born in Catonsville, on September 30, 1903. He graduated from Yale in 1926, having majored in history and anthropology. It is reported that he also studied at Oxford, Columbia and Munich.

Then he settled in New York where he did publicity and sold life insurance. Then he taught school. At the beginning of World War II, he was secretary of radio of the Free World Association in New York.

It has often been said that a rolling stone gathers no moss, but that is not true of Donald Downes, who landed in the OSS, an espionage organization headed by General "Wild Bill" Donovan, now our ambassador to Thailand. Since the war, Downes has settled in Italy.

Bella Dodd, who once was an important Communist leader and has since turned and witnesses against her former colleagues in expiation of past treachery, organized, in 1946, "The American Society for Cultural Relations with Italy" (ASCRI). The name of Donald Downes appears on the stationery of ASCRI as correspondent for "The Nation."

Thus far, it has not come to my attention that any American edition of this book is being announced. Perhaps the extraordinary flop of Lord Jowitt's book has made American publishers cautious. The book is difficult to read, but the first fact that caught my eye was this:

"Donald C. Downes, the holder of this pass, whose photo and signature are hereupon, has the right to circulate at all times in all territories occupied by this Army as he is on special mission for G2, HQ 5th Army. Do not question either the holder of this pass or persons for whom he vouches.

Sept. 1, 1943

Howard, Colonel, USA

G2—5th Army."

It appears from the book that Downes organized a one-man OSS prior to the war and moved about the world mobilizing all sorts of queer forces against Hitler. Then he joined the British intelligence in the United States.

On Page 60, Downes recounts a conversation with a British intelligence agent whom he calls "Mr. Howard" not the colonel):

" 'Do you feel strongly enough on these matters to work for us in your own country? To spy on your own fellow Americans and report to us? For we feel there is German money and German direction behind the "America First" movement, though many of its followers may not know it and would in fact be shocked to know it. If we can pin a Nazi contact or Nazi money on the isolationists, they will lose many of their followers. It might be the deciding factor in America's entry in the war, if the American public knew the truth.

" 'But be careful of the FBI, and the Neutrality Act can land you in prison, for in this work you could not register as the agent of a foreign power as the law requires. It would give the whole show away'.

" 'If the President', I (Downes) replied, 'can risk impeachment by breaking the Neutrality Law wholesale to aid Britain, who am I to refuse?'

" 'And if you are caught', he added, 'we have never heard of you!—you understand that?'

"Perfectly, but I make a few conditions. One is that I am free to give any of the information I may turn up to any American government agency to which I think it would be interesting. Anotner is that on a personal, unofficial basis, I am free to inform a friend in Naval Intelligence what I am doing. The third is that I take no pay above expenses, which will include my living expenses'.

" 'Agreed'."

So, Donald Downes went to work for British intelligence indirectly through a "Mr. Howard," whom he met casually in a chop house near the skating rink in Rockefeller Plaza.

In this book, Downes devotes himself to an attack on the FBI to which I wish to devote another article.

Here And Now

Fossils

Fossils are "dated," but not out-of-date. Not so popular as style shows or food markets, they come out of the primorndial past with present-day meaning for all who have eyes to see and ears to hear.

This writer's interest derived from a friend of his youth who had a scientific turn of mind, especially in the field of paleontology, and had made quite a collection of fossils which he proudly displayed to any comer who might show interest.

It was from this man, Bent Jordan by name, that I imbibed a smattering of half-baked knowledge that has remained latent through the years until it might serve a useful purpose in this column.

Bent pulled me out of bed one morning at daybreak for a 20-mile drive, a la horse and buggy, to the scene of an outcropping of Upper Silurian limestone, near Waldron, Ind., where we would spend the day digging for fossils.

Guarded Against Poachers

We spent our time at the base of an overshadowing cliff with hammer and chisel and a crowbar borrowed from an abandoned stone quarry, carefully chipping away the limestone from some embedded Trilobite to bring it out whole-bodied.

On a hill far away there stood like a sentinel a little old solitary log cabin which was supposed to be inhabited by a recluse who made her living out of the fossils from the fields roundabout and from the cache where we worked, which she zealously guarded against all poachers.

In the shank of the evening we were loading up for the return trip when this shrew discovered us and came down the hill muttering and cursing, leaning heavily on a long pole for support.

As she came nearer she picked up the largest stone she could find, evidently intending to hurl it at the nearest intruder, who in this case was yours truly.

At this juncture Bent came up and countered with, "Have you any fossils for sale?" With this she dropped the stone, her anger cooled and she led the procession up the hill to her cabin where we bought all the fossils we wanted at 35-cents a quart.

Scientifically Important

The net results of that eventful day were the discovery that fossils are scientifically important; that they are often given long names, and that their biological history goes back in time to the beginnings of life on our planet.

Scientists have a way of disguising familiar objects by giving them high-sounding names. One scientist gave his wife a scientific name. He called her "Eurapta Interruptus."

Bill Nye said a friend sent him a fossil by mail, but the name came by express. It might have been "Eucalypto-crinus crassus constrictus."

Fossils are the somatic remains of the denizens of the deep who vast aeons ago were caught in a trap when the mauntains and the seas decided to swap places. In the upheaval they were carried out of the abyss to the upland where they petrified and still remain as a part of the earth's crust.

The law of the jungle prevailed in the subterranean depths, as expressed in this bit of doggerel of unknown origin:

All little bugs have bigger bugs
That jump on 'em and bite 'em,
And these big bugs still bigger bugs
And so ad infinitum.

The same vogue has come down millions of years to our modern secular society, expressed in the pagan maxim: "They shall get who have the power, and they shall keep who can."

If it could have been known in advance that the private lives of these sea marauders would be exposed to this distant generation they would have been more careful of their ethical behavior, just as we mortals would better be in the light of possible future eventualities.

Some People Fossilized

Despite the fact that fossils are outdated, every community has its share of people who are fossilized from the shoulders up. This reference is not personal; present company is always excepted.

We are not in danger of being swallowed up by any seismic upheaval, but we all need to be alerted to imperceptible gradual processes of fossilization.

Among the signs of their approach may be named: stereotyped thinking, fogyism, mental laziness, quitting, failing to hitch oneself with all the corners of the earth with interests deep and exciting.

One should never allow himself to be ensmalled by his environment. If one is born a man he should never die a grocer, and nothing more.

If one is a preacher he should never allow it to be inscribed on his tombstone,

"Here lies the body of the Rev. Mr. Blank
Who was born a man, and died an ecclesiastic."

If one is a newspaperman, he should never write "thirty" at the end of his copy, for there is copy everywhere and the "fourth estate" will always be in grand repute.

The best informed paleontologist I have found in these diggings is a retired railroader who is no fossil. He has located in this area many valuable specimens whose names are on the end of his tongue. He has made wonderful contributions to state and national museums. One grand prize the curators would give their eyes to possess is named "Lecanocrinus (Miracrinus) Perdewi" after the donor, thus winning immortal distinction in a broad field of human knowledge.

NEW YORK — (INS) — The Air Force somewhat belatedly has embarked on a program to explain to the taxpayers what constitutes a wing. But Russian spies here won't learn much. Neither will you.

A wing, many will learn with a start, is not something attached to the fuselage to support the engines and provide lift. A wing, the Air Force explains with the lucidity that can only emit from the Pentagon, is the fourth largest grouping of aircraft.

First there is a flight of planes, meaning "two or more elements." After that comes a squadron, "two or more flights or an administrative unit performing a single basic function, such as a combat squadron or maintenance squadron."

Then a group, which is composed of two or more squadrons. A wing, which follows in the order of eminence, is a "unit which is self-sufficient and capable of sustained efficient operation." But the number of aircraft may range from 75 fighters to 35 heavy bombers.

A division consists of two or more wings. And at the top is an air force, numbered. With ringing clarity, the Pentagon says "the numbered air force is a flexible organization of varying size."

Anyway, we're still striving for 120 wings. The best minds in the Air Force chose 143 wings as the least number that could insure the security of the United States. But Congress cut the appropriation to the bone, the Air Force settled for 120 wings, and is still a dozen or more short. But just what is a wing?

Something of the utter futility that filled the hearts of those whose sons or husbands were prisoners in Korea has filled our New York office, in its efforts to secure the release of INS Correspondent Don Dixon.

Dixon, one of the finest young reporters I ever met, was captured by the Red Chinese last March, along with Richard Applegate of NBC and a merchant mariner who was sailing them to Macao. In the vicinity of Hong Kong their little craft was stopped and they were taken ashore on the Chinese mainland.

Since that time they have been vaguely reported jailed near Canton and in Peiping. The Chinese ignore all official inquiries and entreaties. We have asked the British, who have a loose diplomatic relationship to the Red Chinese, to help in this matter. But the Reds apparently take an unholy glee in giving the British the cold shoulder. Ambassador Bohlen has taken the matter up with the Russians, and still nothing has happened.

It is indeed like batting one's head against a brick wall. And please let's hear no more about the "Bamboo Curtain." It is made of steel and it is higher than anything can soar, except hope.

Prediction: Adlai Stevenson will run in 1956.

Reason for going out on limb in face of Stevenson's apparent indifference: On his return to this country, one of the first things he said to a confidant was, "Hmmm, looks like Stu Symington is running."

Spyros P. Skouras and the other top men in Twentieth Century Fox, pioneers in Cinemascope, make the legendary "bet-a-million" gates look like a piker. Months before the release of "The Robe," first film using the Cinemascope method, Fox's high command ruled that the company would make every one of its future pictures by this means — still to be approved by the public. This must be rated and hailed as the greatest gamble in the entertainment field since Shakespeare put a roof over the Globe and upped the price of "pit" seats.

However, one look at "The Robe," and a realization that those who work with this new method can only improve with experience, will make you understand why Skouras and the others completely abandoned a tried and trusted method that had made their company a giant.

Fifth Is Not A Full Quart

We're shaking the Commies out of government, education and the legal profession.

We're fighting 'em abroad too. Now we're in the position of a lion tamer who brought his work home.

Took a long time to get there and we ran into more popping-off than a porcupine in a bubble bath. The main trouble was the inviolability of the Fifth Amendment.

Everything hid behind the fifth like it was a barrel in a grocery store. It's the one that states nobody shall be compelled to be a witness against himself even if he did it with mirrors.

No person shall be placed in double jeopardy even if he does it again.

Republicans Girding Loins

The 1954 congressional campaign is getting away early, and with a considerable furore. Republicans are countering the Demcoratic shindig in Chicago with a two-day planning session of their own which ends today. Behind all the shouting? The present precarious balance of the two parties in the Senate and the House.

With two vacancies in the Senate, the division is Republicans, 46; Democrats, 47; Independent, 1 (Morse). Vice President Nixon's tie-breaking vote must of course be added to the Republican side. And Senator Morse has announced that he will continue until 1954 to vote with the GOP on organization of the Senate.

The division in the House is Republicans, 218; Democrats, 212; Independent, 1; Vacant, 4. Of the vacant seats, three are in normally Republican territory.

In 1954, 35 senatorial seats are to be contested. Of these, 21 are now held by Democrats; 12 by Republicans. Republicans are unlikely to contest very vigorously nine of the Senate seats now held by Democrats in states of the Solid South. Aside from these states, Democrats are up for re-election in Colorado, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Montana, Minnesota, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Rhode Island, West Virginia, Wyoming.

Republicans are up for re-election in California (Kuchel for the unexpired term of Nixon) Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oregon, South Dakota. And Republicans will try to hold the now vacant seats of the late Senator Taft and Senator Tobey.

Democrats whose seats may be in danger are Johnson of Colorado, Frear of Delaware, Douglas of Illinois, Gillette of Iowa, Humphrey of Minnesota, Murray of Montana, Anderson of New Mexico, and Hunt of Wyoming. These states went Republican for President and a senator — or for President and a governor—in 1952.

Republicans most likely to run into trouble are Saltonstall of Massachusetts (where Lodge was defeated in 1952), Cooper of Kentucky (who won a narrow victory to fill an unexpired term in 1952), Ferguson of Michigan (if popular Governor Williams opposes him).

In the House the Democrats would appear to have their best chance of picking up seats in North Carolina and Virginia, where Republicans in 1952 elected one and three representatives respectively. In 1952 Democratic candidates for the House won 262,468 more popular votes than did Republican candidates. Discounting the Solid South, the Republican House Campaign Committee has computed that in districts where Democrats opposed Republicans, the Republican House lead was 3,259,321, though the Eisenhower plurality over Stevenson was 6,616,233.

History—And Whitewash

History written within a few years of the important events it chronicles is liable to bias. But it is an arduous undertaking to revise the accepted concept of an important character after more than 450 years. That is what the Company of Memories in England is trying to do, as evidenced by this memorial advertisement in three London newspapers:

"Plantagenet—at the Battle of Bosworth, August 22, 1485, there fell fighting bravely Richard III of England, king, statesman, soldier, gentleman. Deeply mourned."

It is the belief of this group that Richard did not send his nephews, who stood between him and the throne, to be murdered in the Tower, but that Henry VII, victor at Bosworth, did, and blamed it on dead Richard of the crooked back. This has the appearance of applying a coat of whitewash to the man accounted the wickedest among several wicked English kings, including that truly great monarch, but serial-polygamist, Henry VIII.

Careful historians have to this day believed the story about Richard, and Shakespeare did more than a century later when he made him the central figure of one of his great tragedies. Considerable lapse of time, if not too great to permit reexamination of fact, can change perspective with regard to national figures.

Role Of Business

In discussion of "influence peddling" in Washington, much has been said about the readiness of business to take advantage of tips on prospective government contracts, including payment of a fee to the tipster. Yet in a notorious present case, the manufacturer who was approached turned down the tipster and reported his offer to the authorities.

If more contractors who are approached took such patriotic action, the public interest would gain and so would the repute of business. The present case concerns the activities of a prominent Washington eager beaver, who rode President Eisenhower's campaign train last autumn and helped stage his inauguration.

According to sworn evidence presented to a congressional committee, this man obtained secret facts as to the prices which various firms had bid on a contract for Navy rocket launchers from a tipster. He then approached a West Coast manufacturer and offered to help him get a major share of the Navy contract for a four per cent fee. The manufacturer reported the offer to the Navy.

The government, in most cases, learns the facts about influence peddling less from its own vigilance than from congressional investigators. The surest safeguard could come from business itself.

A Kid's Game?

One of the better sports photographs lately was the shot of a pitcher of one of the innumerable Little League teams studying his catcher's signa' with weighty concentration. The payoff was in the fact that a large bubble was hanging out of his mouth, indicating the presence of a big wad of bubble gum as insurance against nervousness.

In a considerably more mature atmosphere one afternoon recently at Yankee Stadium in New York, the Yankees were playing the Chicago White Sox. Although the Yanks were leading the Sox by a comfortable 14-game margin in the league standings, the New Yorkers were taking no chances on blowing this one.

Casey Stengel, the Yankees' manager, was wearing a path in the concrete floor of the home dugout, and the score was 0-0. At about this point, someone in the press box looked at Centerfielder Mickey Mantle, the 20-year-old addition to the Yankees, gave another look and whooped. Out of Mantle's mouth was pulsing an unmistakable bubble gum bubble. A photographer with a telephoto lens on his camera recorded the scene for posterity.

How To Keep Well

Protecting Health Of School Children

Many communities have well established school health programs. New York City, for example, hires four full time pediatricians, 250 to 278 part time physicians, and the equivalent of 375 full time nurses to attend the city's 1¼ million elementary and high school children. School health services do not offer treatment; the work is aimed at detecting the child in need of care and seeing that he receives proper medical attention.

The system in New York City is typical of others existing in many parts of the country. In New York, all children entering school are required by law to have a physical examination. The parents are given a choice of taking the youngster to the family or the school doctor so that no one has an excuse, financial or otherwise, for not co-operating. When the child reaches sixth grade a second examination is in order and a third checkup is given on entering high school.

But physical examination is only part of school health services. Children who appear to be ill or who state they are not feeling well are sent to the nurse by the teacher. This is one of the most time consuming features of the job because every year there are about 500,000 morning inspections of children with suspected illnesses. Because the pupil cannot return without being checked, each year there are another one-half million followup reports on current and completed health care.

The teacher is responsible for uncovering bordering cases and some are given special instructions on the signs and symptoms of a variety of common childhood diseases. The nurse also co-operates by having a weekly meeting with the teachers to review the health record of each boy and girl in the class. In this way the child who is not doing well or whose temperament or personality has changed is singled out and sent for examination. In many instances these are the first indications of anemia, malnutrition, nephritis, tuberculosis, rheumatic fever, or other disorders that might go along for several months before being detected by the usual means. Doubtful cases are referred to the school physician for screening, and when examination discloses some disorder the youngster is sent to the family physician for treatment.

Nurses and physicians dealing with high school students have different problems. The various phases of adolescence enter the picture as well as factors related to growth and development. If a girl of 15 is small and underdeveloped she is likely to do poor school work when she cannot understand why she is not on a par with her classmates who have matured at an earlier date. Tuberculosis also must be considered in this age group as well as acne, appendicitis, and hernia. Participation in athletics also is important because some teenagers have defects that might be aggravated by competitive sports. If these abnormalities are overlooked, damage may follow overexertion.

BEER IN HOT WEATHER

E. W. writes: In cooler weather I can drink a few glasses of beer without feeling any effects but in the summer time one glass goes to my head immediately. Have you any explanation for this occurrence?

REPLY

Scientific work has shown that alcoholic drinks are more intoxicating in hot weather because the chemical is absorbed almost immediately by the nervous tissue before the body has a chance to burn it.

HOW LONG?

I. W. writes: I have heard varying reports on how long after cancer strikes it becomes fatal. Can you give me some information along this line?

REPLY

There are many types of cancer and some grow faster than others. The highly malignant varieties may kill in less than four months; others proceed so slowly that 10 years may elapse before they become disabling.

BUTTERMILK AND CALCIUM DEPOSITS

L. M. C. writes: My husband likes to drink a quart of buttermilk a day. Will this cause calcium deposits leading to bursitis or hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

No.

JUMPY

A. E. writes: What makes a person's arms and legs jump during complete relaxation, especially at night?

REPLY

The most common cause is muscle irritability resulting from overactivity, overstretching, nervousness, or too much coffee or tobacco.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

U. S. Army Captain Tells Of Two Years In Communist Prison; Life Of Korean Children Is More Difficult Than That Of U. N. POW's.

WASHINGTON — I don't often publish other people's letters in this column. The reason is that editors prefer that I write about Washington. However, here is a letter from an American Army captain just released from a Korean Communist prison camp, which I believe is going to be an exception to the rule.

The letter is from Capt. Roger C. White, of Monroe, La., commander of Company C, 38th Infantry, 2nd Division, who got out of a Nazi prison camp in 1945, and has just served two years in a prison camp near the Yalu River. Between wars he was elected to the Louisiana Legislature.

Captain White gets back to the U.S.A. just two days from today—Monday, September 21. I am purposely publishing his letter before he gets here, and I'll be interested in seeing—by the public response to his words—whether the rest of you agree that it is worth publishing. Anyway, under the dateline of Inchon, Korea, September 6, here it is:

"Dear Mr. Pearson:

"Please do me a favor, a big favor. Please either print this letter, or at least part of it, in your column.

"For 2½ years now I have been in this suffering little country which has had the very forces of hell attempting to obliterate it from the earth. In the long months and years I spent in a little village on the Yalu, I became obsessed with the horror of what was going on—not only because of the civilians who of course suffered, but also because of the soldiers who were dying. I wanted to be out not only to be free, but in order that I might be sending food to these poor miserable people. The plight of the North Korean children moved me just as much. How I wished that I could have bought candy, food, and toys for them. Suffering children are more than I can bear to think of.

People-To-People Friendship

"I first contacted you in 1948 about the idea of correspondence between citizens of one country with another in order to promote international friendship. I began a correspondence between Monroe, La., and Ingolstadt, Germany, which grew until over 500 people were corresponding. Also, we held a contest with prizes offered for the best letters from school children. We received over 1,200. The reason I had picked Ingolstadt was because it was the town from which I flew after being liberated from a prison camp in April 1945.

A Soldier's $500

"Yesterday I was among the prisoners repatriated to our side after 27 months in North Korea. The warm-hearted welcome we received from our countrymen plus the joyous emotion of being free again evoked feelings which were almost impossible to describe. We knew we would soon return to our beloved country and to our families whom we have missed so terribly over the years. We return to a country of plenty, a country which has never been scathed by enemy bombs, where civilians have never suffered the horror of modern warfare. We return to a country of freedom where children live in peace and happiness.

"But what do we leave? A country which was poverty-striken to begin with, where the people barely existed. And now after three years of war, it has been devastated from one end to the other. Millions have died, among them 300,000 children. Today in South Korea there are hundreds of thousands barely keeping alive.

"Today after eating a hearty meal of steak and finishing up with ice cream, I wandered out on the streets. There I saw a sight which brought pity to my heart. A thin child of not more than seven, with the inevitable little baby sister or brother strapped to her back, was digging in a garbage can for food. The starved look on her face would have brought tears from a man of stone. As I looked at her I realized that she represented so many, many more thousands—starved, hopeless. And then I thought of the well-fed babies at home who have all the love and care possible to give them. And I thought of how I had taken my meal for granted, as if we should ever take any of our blessing for granted!

"I am enclosing a $500 check made out to CARE, New York City, which I wish you would forward. I wrote you in February 1951, several months before I was captured. I begged that you urge the generous, warm-hearted American public to likewise send whatever they can for food parcels to Korea. Address: CARE, NYC. There are literally hundreds of thousands whom you reach who could afford the $10 for a food parcel which will keep a Korean child alive for two to three weeks. I urge them not to think twice! Send the money that will keep these children from dying!

"As I said it may be presumptuous for me to ask you to publish this. But I do hope you will be able to help.

"Sincerely yours,

"ROGER C. WHITE, JR.

"Captain, United States Army

"P. S. I sail tomorrow for God's country, expecting to reach Frisco on the 21st."

NOTE—Captain White enclosed his check, which I am sending to CARE, New York City. Five hundred dollars is a lot for a soldier to give out of a meagre pay check; and I know that a lot of other folks will want to show their appreciation of what he and his buddies have been doing by acting upon his suggestion, if possible by the time he gets home on Monday.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Donald Downes

The London "Sunday Chronicle" asked the question in big, bold type: "Just Who Did G-Man Hoover Fight in the War?" And the London "Sunday Times," in smaller type, says: "FBI Under Fire"; and the London "Daily Mirror," in enormous type, announces: "The G-Man Myth."

And so I turn to a book, published last month in London, entitled, "The Scarlet Thread—'Adventures in Wartime Espionage' "—by Donald Downes. Who is Donald Downes?

The alliterative name made me wonder whether it might not be a pseudonym, but no! There is actually such a person. He was born in Catonsville, on September 30, 1903. He graduated from Yale in 1926, having majored in history and anthropology. It is reported that he also studied at Oxford, Columbia and Munich.

Then he settled in New York where he did publicity and sold life insurance. Then he taught school. At the beginning of World War II, he was secretary of radio of the Free World Association in New York.

It has often been said that a rolling stone gathers no moss, but that is not true of Donald Downes, who landed in the OSS, an espionage organization headed by General "Wild Bill" Donovan, now our ambassador to Thailand. Since the war, Downes has settled in Italy.

Bella Dodd, who once was an important Communist leader and has since turned and witnesses against her former colleagues in expiation of past treachery, organized, in 1946, "The American Society for Cultural Relations with Italy" (ASCRI). The name of Donald Downes appears on the stationery of ASCRI as correspondent for "The Nation."

Thus far, it has not come to my attention that any American edition of this book is being announced. Perhaps the extraordinary flop of Lord Jowitt's book has made American publishers cautious. The book is difficult to read, but the first fact that caught my eye was this:

"Donald C. Downes, the holder of this pass, whose photo and signature are hereupon, has the right to circulate at all times in all territories occupied by this Army as he is on special mission for G2, HQ 5th Army. Do not question either the holder of this pass or persons for whom he vouches.

Sept. 1, 1943

G2—5th Army."

It appears from the book that Downes organized a one-man OSS prior to the war and moved about the world mobilizing all sorts of queer forces against Hitler. Then he joined the British intelligence in the United States.

On Page 60, Downes recounts a conversation with a British intelligence agent whom he calls "Mr. Howard" not the colonel):

" 'Do you feel strongly enough on these matters to work for us in your own country? To spy on your own fellow Americans and report to us? For we feel there is German money and German direction behind the "America First" movement, though many of its followers may not know it and would in fact be shocked to know it. If we can pin a Nazi contact or Nazi money on the isolationists, they will lose many of their followers. It might be the deciding factor in America's entry in the war, if the American public knew the truth.

" 'But be careful of the FBI, and the Neutrality Act can land you in prison, for in this work you could not register as the agent of a foreign power as the law requires. It would give the whole show away'.

" 'If the President', I (Downes) replied, 'can risk impeachment by breaking the Neutrality Law wholesale to aid Britain, who am I to refuse?'

" 'And if you are caught', he added, 'we have never heard of you!—you understand that?'

"Perfectly, but I make a few conditions. One is that I am free to give any of the information I may turn up to any American government agency to which I think it would be interesting. Another is that on a personal, unofficial basis, I am free to inform a friend in Naval Intelligence what I am doing. The third is that I take no pay above expenses, which will include my living expenses'.

" 'Agreed'."

So, Donald Downes went to work for British intelligence indirectly through a "Mr. Howard," whom he met casually in a chop house near the skating rink in Rockefeller Plaza.

In this book, Downes devotes himself to an attack on the FBI to which I wish to devote another article.

Here And Now

Fossils

Fossils are "dated," but not out-of-date. Not so popular as style shows or food markets, they come out of the primorndial past with present-day meaning for all who have eyes to see and ears to hear.

This writer's interest derived from a friend of his youth who had a scientific turn of mind, especially in the field of paleontology, and had made quite a collection of fossils which he proudly displayed to any comer who might show interest.

It was from this man, Bent Jordan by name, that I imbibed a smattering of half-baked knowledge that has remained latent through the years until it might serve a useful purpose in this column.

Bent pulled me out of bed one morning at daybreak for a 20-mile drive, a la horse and buggy, to the scene of an outcropping of Upper Silurian limestone, near Waldron, Ind., where we would spend the day digging for fossils.

Guarded Against Poachers

We spent our time at the base of an overshadowing cliff with hammer and chisel and a crowbar borrowed from an abandoned stone quarry, carefully chipping away the limestone from some embedded Trilobite to bring it out whole-bodied.

On a hill far away there stood like a sentinel a little old solitary log cabin which was supposed to be inhabited by a recluse who made her living out of the fossils from the fields roundabout and from the cache where we worked, which she zealously guarded against all poachers.

In the shank of the evening we were loading up for the return trip when this shrew discovered us and came down the hill muttering and cursing, leaning heavily on a long pole for support.

As she came nearer she picked up the largest stone she could find, evidently intending to hurl it at the nearest intruder, who in this case was yours truly.

At this juncture Bent came up and countered with, "Have you any fossils for sale?" With this she dropped the stone, her anger cooled and she led the procession up the hill to her cabin where we bought all the fossils we wanted at 35-cents a quart.

Scientifically Important

The net results of that eventful day were the discovery that fossils are scientifically important; that they are often given long names, and that their biological history goes back in time to the beginnings of life on our planet.

But Congress cut the appropriation to the bone, the Air Force settled for 120 wings, and is still a dozen or more short. But just what is a wing?

Something of the utter futility that filled the hearts of those whose sons or husbands were prisoners in Korea has filled our New York office, in its efforts to secure the release of INS Correspondent Don Dixon.

Dixon, one of the finest young reporters I ever met, was captured by the Red Chinese last March, along with Richard Applegate of NBC and a merchant mariner who was sailing them to Macao. In the vicinity of Hong Kong their little craft was stopped and they were taken ashore on the Chinese mainland.

Since that time they have been vaguely reported jailed near Canton and in Peiping. The Chinese ignore all official inquiries and entreaties. We have asked the British, who have a loose diplomatic relationship to the Red Chinese, to help in this matter. But the Reds apparently take an unholy glee in giving the British the cold shoulder. Ambassador Bohlen has taken the matter up with the Russians, and still nothing has happened.

It is indeed like batting one's head against a brick wall. And please let's hear no more about the "Bamboo Curtain." It is made of steel and it is higher than anything can soar, except hope.

Prediction: Adlai Stevenson will run in 1956.

Reason for going out on limb in face of Stevenson's apparent indifference: On his return to this country, one of the first things he said to a confidant was, "Hmmm, looks like Stu Symington is running."

Spyros P. Skouras and the other top men in Twentieth Century Fox, pioneers in Cinemascope, make the legendary "bet-a-million" gates look like a piker. Months before the release of "The Robe," first film using the Cinemascope method, Fox's high command ruled that the company would make every one of its future pictures by this means — still to be approved by the public. This must be rated and hailed as the greatest gamble in the entertainment field since Shakespeare put a roof over the Globe and upped the price of "pit" seats.

However, one look at "The Robe," and a realization that those who work with this new method can only improve with experience, will make you understand why Skouras and the others completely abandoned a tried and trusted method that had made their company a giant.

BAERING DOWN . . . . . .
Fifth Is Not A Full Quart

We're shaking the Commies out of government, education and the legal profession.

We're fighting 'em abroad too. Now we're in the position of a lion tamer who brought his work home.

Took a long time to get there and we ran into more popping-off than a porcupine in a bubble bath. The main trouble was the inviolability of the Fifth Amendment.

Everything hid behind the fifth like it was a barrel in a grocery store. It's the one that states nobody shall be compelled to be a witness against himself even if he did it with mirrors.

No person shall be placed in double jeopardy even if he does it again.

Manufacturer Of Water Pipe To Investigate Break Here

A representative of the manufacturer of the water main that burst at the intersection of Decatur Street and Baltimore Avenue last month, causing considerable damage and loss of water, will be here next Wednesday to inspect the pipe.

William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, said P. M. Harris, engineer for the United States Pipe and Foundry Company, Pittsburgh, will check the damaged section of 24-inch cast iron pipe.

Research Opinion Sought

The Cast Iron Research Corporation of Chicago was asked by Andrew J. Bender, superintendent of the department, for its opinion on the break.

Bender informed the researchers that the cast iron pipe that broke was laid in 1945 in a trench nine to ten feet deep. Photos of the broken pipe accompanied Bender's query.

In an answer, the researchers said the break was probably due to one of three things. It may have been resting on rock on some unyielding foundation and in the course of time settlement may have stressed the pipe to the point where "ring failure" occurred.

Excessive pressure such as might have been caused by a "water hammer," a sudden surge, could have been the determining factor.

Shipping Damage Possible

Damage could also have occurred in shipping the report stated, and the weakened pipe could have settled after many years and burst during an increase in pressure.

There is no seam to the 24-inch pipe as it is ring-type, Bender pointed out. The photos show a crack along the length of the main, with about half of one side blown out. The bell at the end of the pipe is intact, thus throwing out the possibility the main broke at the joint.

A considerable amount of damage resulted when the main broke and poured millions of gallons of water into the homes and business places on Baltimore Avenue, Decatur Street and Glen Street.

Liability for the damage has not been determined, officials stated.

Fire Destroys Honeymooners' Home Near Here

A newly married couple lost their "honeymoon" cottage in the eastern end of Allegany County as flames consumed the dwelling while they were at a neighbor's home watching television Thursday night.

E. Lester Kolb, trustee of the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company, was in charge of the firemen called to the blazing residence one half mile south of Chaneysville.

Kolb said the company was called at 10:45 p. m. to the four-room frame house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Beck, who were married a short time ago.

The firemen said the Becks had been away from their home, a recently constructed dwelling, for the evening while they watched television at a neighbor's house.

They returned about 10:30 p. m. and found the back part of the house in flames. When the ten firemen from Flintstone arrived a short time later, the fire had practically consumed the home.

Kolb said the Becks lost all of their possessions, being left with only the clothes they were wearing.

The fire was blamed on a defective flue in the dwelling erected only three or four years ago by Denver Thompson, brother-in-law of Beck.

Cost Of

conveniences such as parking and a steady flow of traffic which are not at this time readily available.

Depends On Action

"I feel that in the past five years the economic condition of Cumberland has been seriously and adversely affected by the loss of out-of-town business, due to the fact that prospective customers cannot adequately shop in the city because of our deplorable traffic conditions.

"I am convinced that the business conditions will not improve until through (inter-city) traffic is removed from the downtown section, so that shoppers will not be subject to present traffic conditions.

"The staff of the State Roads Commission, which has been studying the problems of Cumberland for many years and has all of the pertinent statistical data at hand, has advised the city that the overhead bridge is the most feasible solution to the traffic problems and considering the long range point of view, the money expended for such a bridge would be a very sound investment. When this plan was first suggested, the cost of building such a bridge was estimated to be $5,000,000. However, due to increased costs, I note that such a bridge would now cost approximately $9,000,000. In my opinion, the cost of erecting such a bridge will not be less in the forseeable future, but undoubtedly will increase as time goes on.

"I feel that every businessman in Cumberland is cognizant of the additional business which a solution of our traffic problem will bring back into Cumberland. The cross-town bridge is a part of that solution.

"I would like to call your attention to the fact that the alternate to the overhead bridge was not submitted by the Overhead Bridge Committee, but apparently by the chairman thereof, who is also chairman of the Zoning and Planning Commission.

"I am opposed to any alternate to the overhead bridge plan which has been recommended by the traffic experts of the Maryland State Roads Commission. In discussing this matter with the State Roads Commission on numerous occasions, I have always felt that the State Roads Commission had in mind the best interests of this city. I believe the best interests of the city will be served by accepting the advice of the State Roads Commission.

"I do not feel that the persons submitting the alternate plan are qualified to make such a plan and have not made sufficient surveys in connection with the same. On the other hand, the State Roads Commission has spent thousands of dollars in studying the problem which Cumberland faces. In my opinion, it is the only body at this time which is qualified to advise the city as to the solution of its traffic problem.

"Through the efforts of the city, the Overhead Bridge Committee and State Roads Commission, the overhead bridge plan for Cumberland has been included in the 12-year program of the Maryland State Roads Commission, so that the erection of the bridge as recommended now seems to be a reality. This plan has always been advocated by the Mayor and City Council and the Overhead Bridge Committee, as well as the Zoning and Planning Commission.

"If the Mayor and City Council has now reversed its position, I suggest that the Overhead Bridge Committee be dissolved, since under the circumstances it serves no useful purpose. The Overhead Bridge Committee has not discussed or considered any alternate plan and it seems to me that the Zoning and Planning Commission has exceeded its authority in regard to this matter since it has always been understood that the Overhead Bridge Committee was charged with the responsibility of solving Cumberland's traffic problem.

"The Overhead Bridge Committee has worked in cooperation with the Mayor and City Council and the State Roads Commission and it now seems that when their goal has almost been accomplished, some other group without adequate consideration or knowledge has submitted an alternate plan. Since the State Roads Commission favors the overhead bridge, it is entirely possible that the State and the Federal government would pay a large portion of the cost of erecting such bridge which naturally would save the city many millions of dollars at a time when the city can ill afford to place any additional burdens on the taxpayers."

Navy Asks Return Of Lost Ammunition

The Navy yesterday issued a call for the return of several 40 millimeter projectiles that were spilled along Highway 50 near New Creek (W. Va.) recently when an ammunition truck overturned. A simultaneous word of caution was given to motorists who gathered and kept the shells as they passed the scene of the wreck.

In the interest of public safety, the Navy Department is seeking to recover the live rounds in an effort to guard against a tragic accident that is always possible as long as one of these shells remains in some home.

Persons who still have one or more of the projectiles are being requested to turn them in to their local police department headquarters. No action will be taken against the "souvenir hunters," Navy officials said.

Second County Grader Damaged

For the second time within 10 days machinery of the Allegany County Roads Department has been damaged by persons unauthorized to handle the devices.

Thursday night about 9:30 two men were in the act of stripping a grader at the county garage on Franklin Street when they were run off by several workmen inside the garage. The grader was parked on the garage property and when the county employes inside the garage heard the noise made in stripping the machine they investigated.

The county commissioners are considering erecting an electric fence to ward off trespassers, according to Commissioner James Orr.

Auxiliary Police Map Plans For Air Alert

Plans for the participation of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police in the state-wide alert next Tuesday were outlined at a meeting at its quarters, the Canada Hose House.

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn outlined the program, assigned the members to their posts and explained the duties which will be required of the individual members. Civil Defense work in general was discussed by William G. Barger, Allegany County CD director.

T. Sgt. John A. Newhouse of the Cumberland Police Department, advisor to the auxiliary unit, asked that present and former Auxiliary Police members meet at Police Headquarters at noon Tuesday in order that the posts may be manned prior to the 2:01 p. m. alert.

Tri-State Area Will Return To Slow Time September 27

Daylight Saving Time comes to an end Sunday morning September 27, a little over a week from now.

With the return to Eastern Standard Time, people of this county will be given a chance to pick up the hour of sleep they lost in April when fast time came in and they set their clocks ahead one hour.

For railroaders and others having business with the railroads in this transportation center, it will mean an end to living by "two times," for they have been working on slow time on the job and on fast time at home.

The new schedules have been released for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's passenger trains.

The Blue Ridge Transportation Company will announce its new schedules in a few days.

The Western Maryland Railway's passenger train will leave Elkins at 7:30 a. m. and arrive here at 11:30 a. m. It will leave Cumberland at 2:45 p. m. and arrive in Elkins at 6:50 p. m., daily except Sunday.

The Baltimore and Ohio's schedules are:

"The staff of the State Roads Commission, which has been studying the problems of Cumberland for many years and has all of the pertinent statistical data at hand, has advised the city that the overhead bridge is the most feasible solution to the traffic problems and considering the long range point of view, the money expended for such a bridge would be a very sound investment. When this plan was first suggested, the cost of building such a bridge was estimated to be $5,000,000. However, due to increased costs, I note that such a bridge would now cost approximately $9,000,000. In my opinion, the cost of erecting such a bridge will not be less in the forseeable future, but undoubtedly will increase as time goes on.

"I feel that every businessman in Cumberland is cognizant of the additional business which a solution of our traffic problem will bring back into Cumberland. The cross-town bridge is a part of that solution.

"I would like to call your attention to the fact that the alternate to the overhead bridge was not submitted by the Overhead Bridge Committee, but apparently by the chairman thereof, who is also chairman of the Zoning and Planning Commission.

"I am opposed to any alternate to the overhead bridge plan which has been recommended by the traffic experts of the Maryland State Roads Commission. In discussing this matter with the State Roads Commission on numerous occasions, I have always felt that the State Roads Commission had in mind the best interests of this city. I believe the best interests of the city will be served by accepting the advice of the State Roads Commission.

"I do not feel that the persons submitting the alternate plan are qualified to make such a plan and have not made sufficient surveys in connection with the same. On the other hand, the State Roads Commission has spent thousands of dollars in studying the problem which Cumberland faces. In my opinion, it is the only body at this time which is qualified to advise the city as to the solution of its traffic problem.

"Through the efforts of the city, the Overhead Bridge Committee and State Roads Commission, the overhead bridge plan for Cumberland has been included in the 12-year program of the Maryland State Roads Commission, so that the erection of the bridge as recommended now seems to be a reality. This plan has always been advocated by the Mayor and City Council and the Overhead Bridge Committee, as well as the Zoning and Planning Commission.

"If the Mayor and City Council has now reversed its position, I suggest that the Overhead Bridge Committee be dissolved, since under the circumstances it serves no useful purpose. The Overhead Bridge Committee has not discussed or considered any alternate plan and it seems to me that the Zoning and Planning Commission has exceeded its authority in regard to this matter since it has always been understood that the Overhead Bridge Committee was charged with the responsibility of solving Cumberland's traffic problem.

"The Overhead Bridge Committee has worked in cooperation with the Mayor and City Council and the State Roads Commission and it now seems that when their goal has almost been accomplished, some other group without adequate consideration or knowledge has submitted an alternate plan. Since the State Roads Commission favors the overhead bridge, it is entirely possible that the State and the Federal government would pay a large portion of the cost of erecting such bridge which naturally would save the city many millions of dollars at a time when the city can ill afford to place any additional burdens on the taxpayers."

Navy Asks Return Of Lost Ammunition

The Navy yesterday issued a call for the return of several 40 millimeter projectiles that were spilled along Highway 50 near New Creek (W. Va.) recently when an ammunition truck overturned. A simultaneous word of caution was given to motorists who gathered and kept the shells as they passed the scene of the wreck.

In the interest of public safety, the Navy Department is seeking to recover the live rounds in an effort to guard against a tragic accident that is always possible as long as one of these shells remains in some home.

Persons who still have one or more of the projectiles are being requested to turn them in to their local police department headquarters. No action will be taken against the "souvenir hunters," Navy officials said.

Second County Grader Damaged

For the second time within 10 days machinery of the Allegany County Roads Department has been damaged by persons unauthorized to handle the devices.

Thursday night about 9:30 two men were in the act of stripping a grader at the county garage on Franklin Street when they were run off by several workmen inside the garage. The grader was parked on the garage property and when the county employes inside the garage heard the noise made in stripping the machine they investigated.

Auxiliary Police Map Plans For Air Alert

Plans for the participation of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police in the state-wide alert next Tuesday were outlined at a meeting at its quarters, the Canada Hose House.

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn outlined the program, assigned the members to their posts and explained the duties which will be required of the individual members. Civil Defense work in general was discussed by William G. Barger, Allegany County CD director.

T. Sgt. John A. Newhouse of the Cumberland Police Department, advisor to the auxiliary unit, asked that present and former Auxiliary Police members meet at Police Headquarters at noon Tuesday in order that the posts may be manned prior to the 2:01 p. m. alert.

Tri-State Area Will Return To Slow Time September 27

Daylight Saving Time comes to an end Sunday morning September 27, a little over a week from now.

With the return to Eastern Standard Time, people of this county will be given a chance to pick up the hour of sleep they lost in April when fast time came in and they set their clocks ahead one hour.

For railroaders and others having business with the railroads in this transportation center, it will mean an end to living by "two times," for they have been working on slow time on the job and on fast time at home.

The new schedules have been released for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's passenger trains.

The Blue Ridge Transportation Company will announce its new schedules in a few days.

The Western Maryland Railway's passenger train will leave Elkins at 7:30 a. m. and arrive here at 11:30 a. m. It will leave Cumberland at 2:45 p. m. and arrive in Elkins at 6:50 p. m., daily except Sunday.

The Baltimore and Ohio's schedules are:

BY JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Three pass interceptions and recovery of two enemy fumbles paved the way for five Fort Hill touchdowns last night as Coach Bill Hahn's defending city champions easily turned back the invasion of Parsons, W. Va., High School Panthers before some 4,200 fans in Fort Hill stadium. The score was 45 to 6.

Scoring in their 62nd straight contest the Scarlet and White Sentinels had no trouble with Coach Robert Sullivan's Purple Panthers, scoring almost at will in the first half and then coasting to their second triumph this season.

Parsons Ties Score

Parsons got briefly in the game in the first period when a beautiful pass from Fullback Delton Mullenax to End James Bundy clicked for 49 yards and a first down on the Fort Hill 13. Bundy had slipped behind the Fort Hill safety and caught the heave on the 25. He raced to the 13 where he was brought down from behind by Sentinel tackle Ed Cookerly.

Two plays later Parsons tied the score at 6-6 when Mullenax tossed a 12-yard aerial to Terry Fairbanks and the lanky end stepped over the goal.

Fort Hill had opened the scoring with a steady 54 yard march in seven plays with Bob Andrews plunging over from the four early in the initial stanza.

Then in the second period the dam broke loose. Twice substitute back Earl Grove intercepted Mullenax passes to set up Fort Hill scores, Andrews going over from 21 yards out and Ronald Rice scoring from the 15. Later in the same stanza Neil Bechtol, Fort Hill center, intercepted Mullenax' toss on the Parsons' 28 and rambled untouched for a six-pointer. Halftime count was 31-6 Fort Hill.

Two Parsons fumbles in the third quarter were recovered by alert Fort Hill defense, and each was converted into a Sentinel drive to a score. Charles Widdows, second string quarterback, sneaked over from the three for one and Jim Crawford, hard-running sub halfback bucked from the one for another.

Football Queen Crowned

Hahn cleared his bench with 36 players seeing action. The first string playing little more than two full periods. Cookerly, Bechtol and Bittner were outstanding on the line while Bob Andrews, Crawford, Teets, and Ronnie Whisner was best in the backfield.

Delton Mullenax, Terry Fairbanks, Bill Rosenau, James Bundy, and Walter Jones were Parsons' best bets.

In pre-game ceremonies the Fort Hill Band Parents Association presented Principal Victor D. Heisey with a check to pay for new uniforms which the band wore for the first time last night.

At halftime, last year's Fort Hill Football Queen, Sara Clapp, crowned the new queen who was presented to the public. Miss Donna Martz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Morris, Christie Road, a pretty, blonde senior, will reign as the 1953 Football Queen at the Greenway Avenue school. The lineups:

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Sept. 18 —Halfback Bobby Wilson put on a one-man scoring show here today as Moorefield High School's Yellow Jackets defeated Thomas High for the ninth straight year on the gridiron. The score was 25-7.

Wilson accounted for all of Moorefield's points on four touchdowns and one conversion as Coach Jonathan Paugh's eleven registered its first triumph of the Potomac Valley Conference campaign.

The Jackets drove 49 yards in the opening period for their initial score. They reeled off three first downs on running plays that carried to the Thomas three from where Wilson scored. Bean's placement was wide.

Before the period was concluded Wilson raced 54 yards for the second score and also kicked the extra point.

Thomas recovered a Moorefield fumble on the Tucker Countians' 36 and uncorked a passing attack that moved the ball to the 4-yard mark. Jim Knaggs ran to the one on an end run and Jack Sowers hit center for the touchdown. Knaggs converted. During the drive, Coach Ed Supak's passing combination of Dale Evans and Sowers clicked five times in eight tries.

As the second half got under way Bobby Wilson returned the kickoff 55 yards to the Thomas 30. Moorefield lost 11 yards but several plays later Wilson got loose and ran 30 yards to pay dirt.

The Yellow Jackets concluded scoring in the final period on an 18-yard gallop by Wilson.

Thomas was limited to 51 net yards on the ground but the Tucker Countians picked up 95 yards by completing 11 of 30 passes. The winners rolled up 361 yards on running plays and through the air.

Georgia Tests Villanova In Feature Tilt

100,000 To See Game; Rice To Host Florida

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—College football 1953 takes its first uncertain steps tomorrow as many high ranking grid powers find out if they've been overrated.

An intersectional split-T scrap between Maryland's Jim Tatum and the man who taught him the system—Missouri's Don Faurot—is expected to help raise the curtain with a bang at Columbia, Mo.

Unable to stop the Terps in three previous tries Missouri's Tigers offer talented Tony Scardino to offset Bernie Faloney at the vital quarterback position. Maryland will have a 20-pound-per-man weight advantage in the line.

The "big one" from the NCAA standpoint pits Oregon and Nebraska.

Rice Owls Play Florida

Each of the three teams mentioned for possible Southwest Conference honors has its hands full in cross-country tests. Rice's Owls, with eight seniors in the starting lineup, play host to a Florida unit rated near the top in the deep South. Texas' 1952 titlists, invade Louisiana State.

In the battle of the Bears at California, California faces Baylor with the Far West Bears hoping to have the best of it.

The Pacific Coast Conference race gets off to a flying start as defending champion Southern California travels north to match single wing attacks with Washington State.

Villanova Tests Georgia

The word is out that Villanova Coach Art Raimo may send up counter aerial currents against passing artist Zeke Bratkowski and his Georgia mates. The supermarket special at Philadelphia is expected to draw nearly 100,000.

Steve Meilinger is the reason Kentucky folks figure Texas A&M may go home still looking for its first victory.

Texas Christian turns on the lights at Fort Worth and unveils new coach, Abe Martin, and a system to match for the benefit of invading Kansas.

Red Wings Star Suffers Injury

Don Richmond Hit On Head By Ball

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Don Richmond, star Rochester Red Wings third baseman struck by a pitched ball last night, is out of action for the rest of his team's International League playoff series.

Dr. Erwin Mayer, team physician of the Baltimore Orioles, said today Richmond had suffered a concussion when a throw by Bob Greenwood hit him on the side of the head.

Mayer said the protective plate in Richmond's cap probably saved him from a skull fracture. The doctor added the Red Wing infielder was in satisfactory condition and probably would leave with the Rochester squad tomorrow night. However, he said it was doubtful that Richmond would play any more this year even if Rochester wins the current semi-final playoff series in which Baltimore led today, two games to one.

LaSalle High School's Explorers outclassed Petersburg High School's Vikings yesterday at Petersburg, W. Va., to chalk up their first victory of the football season. The score was 27-0.

Coach Norman Geatz's team scored three of its four touchdowns on forward passes, two being credited to Jimmy Wilt, substitute end, and Phil Geatz, regular right end, accounted for the other. Ken Lowery scored on a running play and Edgar Kegg converted three times in four attempts.

LaSalle drove 51 yards for the first score early in the opening period, a twenty-yard pass from Dennis Shuck to Phil Geatz producing the six-pointer. Kegg missed the try for point.

A fumble by Petersburg on its own 26 set up the second LaSalle score. The Explorers after recovering had a touchdown four plays later when Kenneth Lowery went over from eight yards out.

Wilt, 161-pound senior, made his first score in the third period on a pass play from Shuck that netted 30 yards, and with two minutes remaining in the final quarter John Blake passed 13-yards to Wilt for the game's final touchdown.

Petersburg was limited to two first downs, 39 yards on running plays and 14 yards on one of six completed passes. The Vikings never advanced the ball within LaSalle's 30-yard line.

The Explorers completed five of eleven overhead thrusts for 78 yards, reeled off 132 yards rushing and marked up a total of 13 first downs.

Maryland Rated Touchdown Edge Over Missouri

20,000 To Witness Columbia Contest

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 18 (AP) — Two of the outstanding exponents of split T football—Maryland and Missouri—will open their new football seasons here tomorrow before a crowd of about 20,000.

The rivalry is comparatively new to fans over the nation, but it's fairly old to Coach Don Faurot, of Missouri, inventor of the split T. Coach Jim Tatum of Maryland, who learned the system as Faurot's assistant at Jacksonville Navy in world war II, has won all three of the previous meetings.

Mayland, formerly a power in the Southern Conference, now is a member of the new Atlantic Coast Conference. Missouri is a charter member of the Big Seven (ex-big six) Conference. The kickoff is set for 2 p.m. (CST).

Missouri came close to pulling a real upset in the same opening game here last year. The Tigers led the Terps for 58 of the 60 minutes only to have Maryland win 13-10 on a fourth down pass from Jack Scarbath to Lloyd Colteryahn.

Maryland has been made a one-touchdown favorite. The experts figure Bernie Faloney is every bit as capable as was Scarbath. Tatum says it's "the best backfield I ever had."

Leon Hart

A record of four defeated seasons for the Fighting Irish hung in the balance on a hot, humid afternoon preceded by a morning of hard rain.

Leading up to the game were 36 victories, a scoreless tie in 1946 with Army and a 14-14 deadlock with Southern California in 1948. Too, Notre Dame already had been conceded the National Championship just the week-end before. We were ripe to be knocked off. Complacency was our problem. Doak Walker, the Mustang's greatest threat, was sidelined with injuries. Our own squad was at full strength. We had absorbed our scouting reports to perfection.

Dallas Seethed

Dallas seethed with excitement. Pep rallies were going on everywhere. Police attempted to quiet a noisy, horn-blowing incident around our living quarters Friday at midnight. Saturday's rain had lowered the temperature 10 degrees, ideal for us.

SMU tossed a block-buster into our scout reports with a spread formation unfamiliar to us. Our hurried instructions were to spread accordingly and we established a 13-0 half-time lead.

I felt certain that our coaches, at half-time, would give us special orders to stop the optional run-pass play on which Kyle Rote was running wild. But our orders remained, "spread accordingly."

Rote was magnificent in the second half, keeping the Mustangs on the roll as Doak's sub. Twice the Notre Dame defense had to halt drives, once on the 4-yard line and again on the 1-foot line.

With 10 minutes remaining, SMU had tied the score at 20-all and looked inspired to win.

It was then that I felt proud to be associated with the most determined group of men I have ever known. Suddenly we found ourselves. We began hitting with everything we had. We knew full well we had to score.

Geared and Going

I could see and feel that every one of us was geared and going. Starting from our own 20 and, in spite of two heart-breaking 15-yard penalties, we moved to the SMU six from where Bill Barrett sneaked around left end for the winning touchdown.

Jim Martin, another of my Detroit Lion team-mates, and I were co-captains. He played his heart out. In my estimation, Jim is the toughest all-around football player in the game.

Jim and I would have cried like babies for joy after that victory, but we didn't want the rest of our teammates to see their captains acting juvenile.

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 18 — Fullback Ernie Courrier, leading scorer in the Potomac Valley Conference last season, registered touchdowns in the first and third periods today to give Keyser High School's Golden Tornado a 14-0 triumph over Beall High School of Frostburg at Stayman Field.

It was the fifth meeting of Coach Clark's eleven with the Mountaineers and the victory was the second for Keyser. The teams did not meet last year.

Keyser marched 42 yards for its first score in the second period. A series of running plays carried to the one from where Courrier smashed over. He also kicked the point from placement.

Jack Landes, Keyser right guard, set up the second score when he blocked a kick on the Beall 16. Three plays later Courrier toted the leather over from the five. Rick Kephart's kick for the point was good.

Courrier, in addition to scoring both touchdowns, accounted for most of Keyser's seven first downs. Landes blocked two kicks. Others standing out on the offense for KHS were Webb, Morris and Burns while Wilson, Raines and Burns played good defensively.

Beall was held to 45 yards overland but the Mountain City team completed six of 12 passes for 90 yards. Keyser piled up 150 net yards rushing.

Coach Ray Hull's eleven threatened in the second period by advancing to the Keyser four but three plays later the visitors were thrown back to the 11 where they lost the ball on downs. Lineups:

Littler, Morey Reach National Amateur Finals

Defeat Cudd, Albert, Title Match Today

By WILL GRIMSLEY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 18 (AP)— A pair of tournament toughies with contrasting temperaments, cool Gene Littler of La Jolla, Calif., and nervous Dale Morey of Indianapolis, will play tomorrow for the 53rd National Amateur Golf Championship.

The 23-year-old California Navy airman and the wiry 32-year-old ex-professional snuffed out the bids of two young collegians today in the wind-swept semi-finals over the Oklahoma City Golf and Country Club course.

Littler, the Walker Cup member, drilling even par golf through gusts that reached 43 miles per hour, put down Bruce Cudd, 20-year-old Portland (Ore.) University sophomore, in a near record beating, 10 and 8.

The jumpy Morey, gobbling vitamin pills and guzzling orange juice to combat a nagging cold, took early command and never let go in a 5 and 4 victory over Don Albert of Alliance, Ohio, Purdue University's Big Ten Conference champion.

The first 18 hole round tomorrow will start at 10:30 a.m. (EST), the second at 3 p.m.

Fred Scampers Ten Yards For Lone TD In Second Quarter

Fred Barbe took a pitch-out and scored from ten yards out in the second quarter to give Coach Chester Payne's Ridgeley High School Blackhawks a 7-0 victory over Circleville High School's Indians yesterday in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Ridgeley.

The extra point was scored by Kenny Hartman from placement.

Ridgeley had three other opportunities to score but were stopped by penalties. First downs were 9-3 in Ridgeley's favor.

The game was highlighted by the kicking of Kenny Hartman and the offensive blocking of Bob Bradley, fullback. It was Hartman's kicking that was instrumental in setting up the only score of the game.

Gavilan Wins Over Basilio

Champ Floored Early, Gets Split Decision

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Sept. 18 (AP)— Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan got off the deck from his first knockdown since 1948 to retain his title by winning a split 15 round decision from rugged little Carmen Basilio of this area tonight in his sixth title defense.

Gavilan weighed 146¾, Basilio 147.

Rabid Basilio partisans stormed around ringside after the decision was announced, yelling at the officials in derision. A cordon of police with drawn billy clubs surrounded the ring to prevent any trouble.

From the moment that the 26-year-old ex-Marine dropped the sleek champion with a left hook early in the second round, it was an exciting battle. The knockdown came as a startling shock to the wise guys who had made Gavilan a solid 4 to 1 choice.

LOST TWO YARDS

DETROIT (AP) — Pete Retzlaff, Detroit Lions rookie fullback, was thrown for a loss only once in two years of college football, and that was for two yards. His rushing at South Dakota State totaled 2,027 yards in 19 games.

BY JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Three pass interceptions and recovery of two enemy fumbles paved the way for five Fort Hill touchdowns last night as Coach Bill Hahn's defending city champions easily turned back the invasion of Parsons, W. Va., High School Panthers before some 4,200 fans in Fort Hill stadium. The score was 45 to 6.

Scoring in their 62nd straight contest the Scarlet and White Sentinels had no trouble with Coach Robert Sullivan's Purple Panthers, scoring almost at will in the first half and then coasting to their second triumph this season.

Parsons Ties Score

Parsons got briefly in the game in the first period when a beautiful pass from Fullback Delton Mullenax to End James Bundy clicked for 49 yards and a first down on the Fort Hill 13. Bundy had slipped behind the Fort Hill safety and caught the heave on the 25. He raced to the 13 where he was brought down from behind by Sentinel tackle Ed Cookerly.

Two plays later Parsons tied the score at 6-6 when Mullenax tossed a 12-yard aerial to Terry Fairbanks and the lanky end stepped over the goal.

Fort Hill had opened the scoring with a steady 54 yard march in seven plays with Bob Andrews plunging over from the four early in the initial stanza.

Then in the second period the dam broke loose. Twice substitute back Earl Grove intercepted Mullenax passes to set up Fort Hill scores, Andrews going over from 21 yards out and Ronald Rice scoring from the 15. Later in the same stanza Neil Bechtol, Fort Hill center, intercepted Mullenax' toss on the Parsons' 28 and rambled untouched for a six-pointer. Halftime count was 31-6 Fort Hill.

Two Parsons fumbles in the third quarter were recovered by alert Fort Hill defense, and each was converted into a Sentinel drive to a score. Charles Widdows, second string quarterback, sneaked over from the three for one and Jim Crawford, hard-running sub halfback bucked from the one for another.

Football Queen Crowned

Hahn cleared his bench with 36 players seeing action. The first string playing little more than two full periods. Cookerly, Bechtol and Bittner were outstanding on the line while Bob Andrews, Crawford, Teets, and Ronnie Whisner was best in the backfield.

Delton Mullenax, Terry Fairbanks, Bill Rosenau, James Bundy, and Walter Jones were Parsons' best bets.

In pre-game ceremonies the Fort Hill Band Parents Association presented Principal Victor D. Heisey with a check to pay for new uniforms which the band wore for the first time last night.

At halftime, last year's Fort Hill Football Queen, Sara Clapp, crowned the new queen who was presented to the public. Miss Donna Martz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Morris, Christie Road, a pretty, blonde senior, will reign as the 1953 Football Queen at the Greenway Avenue school. The lineups:

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Sept. 18—Halfback Bobby Wilson put on a one-man scoring show here today as Moorefield High School's Yellow Jackets defeated Thomas High for the ninth straight year on the gridiron. The score was 25-7.

Wilson accounted for all of Moorefield's points on four touchdowns and one conversion as Coach Jonathan Paugh's eleven registered its first triumph of the Potomac Valley Conference campaign.

The Jackets drove 49 yards in the opening period for their initial score. They reeled off three first downs on running plays that carried to the Thomas three from where Wilson scored. Bean's placement was wide.

Before the period was concluded Wilson raced 54 yards for the second score and also kicked the extra point.

Thomas recovered a Moorefield fumble on the Tucker Countians' 36 and uncorked a passing attack that moved the ball to the 4-yard mark. Jim Knaggs ran to the one on an end run and Jack Sowers hit center for the touchdown. Knaggs converted. During the drive, Coach Ed Supak's passing combination of Dale Evans and Sowers clicked five times in eight tries.

As the second half got under way Bobby Wilson returned the kickoff 55 yards to the Thomas 30. Moorefield lost 11 yards but several plays later Wilson got loose and ran 30 yards to pay dirt.

The Yellow Jackets concluded scoring in the final period on an 18-yard gallop by Wilson.

Thomas was limited to 51 net yards on the ground but the Tucker Countians picked up 95 yards by completing 11 of 30 passes. The winners rolled up 361 yards on running plays and through the air.

Georgia Tests Villanova In Feature Tilt

100,000 To See Game; Rice To Host Florida

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—College football 1953 takes its first uncertain steps tomorrow as many high ranking grid powers find out if they've been overrated.

An intersectional split-T scrap between Maryland's Jim Tatum and the man who taught him the system—Missouri's Don Faurot—is expected to help raise the curtain with a bang at Columbia, Mo.

Unable to stop the Terps in three previous tries Missouri's Tigers offer talented Tony Scardino to offset Bernie Faloney at the vital quarterback position. Maryland will have a 20-pound-per-man weight advantage in the line.

The "big one" from the NCAA standpoint pits Oregon and Nebraska.

Rice Owls Play Florida

Each of the three teams mentioned for possible Southwest Conference honors has its hands full in cross-country tests. Rice's Owls, with eight seniors in the starting lineup, play host to a Florida unit rated near the top in the deep South. Texas' 1952 titlists, invade Louisiana State.

In the battle of the Bears at California, California faces Baylor with the Far West Bears hoping to have the best of it.

The Pacific Coast Conference race gets off to a flying start as defending champion Southern California travels north to match single wing attacks with Washington State.

Villanova Tests Georgia

The word is out that Villanova Coach Art Raimo may send up counter aerial currents against passing artist Zeke Bratkowski and his Georgia mates. The supermarket special at Philadelphia is expected to draw nearly 100,000.

Steve Meilinger is the reason Kentucky folks figure Texas A&M may go home still looking for its first victory.

Texas Christian turns on the lights at Fort Worth and unveils new coach, Abe Martin, and a system to match for the benefit of invading Kansas.

Red Wings Star Suffers Injury

Don Richmond Hit On Head By Ball

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Don Richmond, star Rochester Red Wings third baseman struck by a pitched ball last night, is out of action for the rest of his team's International League playoff series.

Dr. Erwin Mayer, team physician of the Baltimore Orioles, said today Richmond had suffered a concussion when a throw by Bob Greenwood hit him on the side of the head.

Mayer said the protective plate in Richmond's cap probably saved him from a skull fracture. The doctor added the Red Wing infielder was in satisfactory condition and probably would leave with the Rochester squad tomorrow night. However, he said it was doubtful that Richmond would play any more this year even if Rochester wins the current semi-final playoff series in which Baltimore led today, two games to one.

Coach Norman Geatz's team scored three of its four touchdowns on forward passes, two being credited to Jimmy Wilt, substitute end, and Phil Geatz, regular right end, accounted for the other. Ken Lowery scored on a running play and Edgar Kegg converted three times in four attempts.

LaSalle drove 51 yards for the first score early in the opening period, a twenty-yard pass from Dennis Shuck to Phil Geatz producing the six-pointer. Kegg missed the try for point.

A fumble by Petersburg on its own 26 set up the second LaSalle score. The Explorers after recovering had a touchdown four plays later when Kenneth Lowery went over from eight yards out.

Wilt, 161-pound senior, made his first score in the third period on a pass play from Shuck that netted 30 yards, and with two minutes remaining in the final quarter John Blake passed 13-yards to Wilt for the game's final touchdown.

Petersburg was limited to two first downs, 39 yards on running plays and 14 yards on one of six completed passes. The Vikings never advanced the ball within LaSalle's 30-yard line.

Maryland Rated Touchdown Edge Over Missouri

20,000 To Witness Columbia Contest

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 18 (AP) — Two of the outstanding exponents of split T football—Maryland and Missouri—will open their new football seasons here tomorrow before a crowd of about 20,000.

The rivalry is comparatively new to fans over the nation, but it's fairly old to Coach Don Faurot, of Missouri, inventor of the split T. Coach Jim Tatum of Maryland, who learned the system as Faurot's assistant at Jacksonville Navy in world war II, has won all three of the previous meetings.

Mayland, formerly a power in the Southern Conference, now is a member of the new Atlantic Coast Conference. Missouri is a charter member of the Big Seven (ex-big six) Conference. The kickoff is set for 2 p.m. (CST).

Missouri came close to pulling a real upset in the same opening game here last year. The Tigers led the Terps for 58 of the 60 minutes only to have Maryland win 13-10 on a fourth down pass from Jack Scarbath to Lloyd Colteryahn.

Maryland has been made a one-touchdown favorite. The experts figure Bernie Faloney is every bit as capable as was Scarbath. Tatum says it's "the best backfield I ever had."

Another Price-owned thoroughbred, Mr. Frostburg, finished third in the fifth race and paid $2.50.

G. Martin rode Rectortown and E. Anyon was aboard Mr. Frostburg.

Hart Recalls Irish Win Over Mustangs In 1949 Contest

BY LEON HART
AP Newsfeatures

It was during the final 10 minutes in Notre Dame's 27-20 victory in 1949 over Southern Methodist that I experienced my greatest thrill in college football.

Leon Hart

A record of four defeated seasons for the Fighting Irish hung in the balance on a hot, humid afternoon preceded by a morning of hard rain.

Leading up to the game were 36 victories, a scoreless tie in 1946 with Army and a 14-14 deadlock with Southern California in 1948. Too, Notre Dame already had been conceded the National Championship just the week-end before. We were ripe to be knocked off. Complacency was our problem. Doak Walker, the Mustang's greatest threat, was sidelined with injuries. Our own squad was at full strength. We had absorbed our scouting reports to perfection.

Dallas Seethed

Dallas seethed with excitement. Pep rallies were going on everywhere. Police attempted to quiet a noisy, horn-blowing incident around our living quarters Friday at midnight. Saturday's rain had lowered the temperature 10 degrees, ideal for us.

SMU tossed a block-buster into our scout reports with a spread formation unfamiliar to us. Our hurried instructions were to spread accordingly and we established a 13-0 half-time lead.

I felt certain that our coaches, at half-time, would give us special orders to stop the optional run-pass play on which Kyle Rote was running wild. But our orders remained, "spread accordingly."

Rote was magnificent in the second half, keeping the Mustangs on the roll as Doak's sub. Twice the Notre Dame defense had to halt drives, once on the 4-yard line and again on the 1-foot line.

With 10 minutes remaining, SMU had tied the score at 20-all and looked inspired to win.

It was then that I felt proud to be associated with the most determined group of men I have ever known. Suddenly we found ourselves. We began hitting with everything we had. We knew full well we had to score.

Geared and Going

I could see and feel that every one of us was geared and going. Starting from our own 20 and, in spite of two heart-breaking 15-yard penalties, we moved to the SMU six from where Bill Barrett sneaked around left end for the winning touchdown.

Jim Martin, another of my Detroit Lion team-mates, and I were co-captains. He played his heart out. In my estimation, Jim is the toughest all-around football player in the game.

Jim and I would have cried like babies for joy after that victory, but we didn't want the rest of our teammates to see their captains acting juvenile.

HOT HURLERS

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — Righthanders Maurice Fisher of Columbia and George Skordian of Savannah hooked up in one of the year's hottest pitching duels one hot night recently. Each allowed only two hits in the South Atlantic League game but Columbia bunched its pair in the last inning for a 2-1 victory.

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 18 — Fullback Ernie Courrier, leading scorer in the Potomac Valley Conference last season, registered touchdowns in the first and third periods today to give Keyser High School's Golden Tornado a 14-0 triumph over Beall High School of Frostburg at Stayman Field.

It was the fifth meeting of Coach Clark's eleven with the Mountaineers and the victory was the second for Keyser. The teams did not meet last year.

Keyser marched 42 yards for its first score in the second period. A series of running plays carried to the one from where Courrier smashed over. He also kicked the point from placement.

Jack Landes, Keyser right guard, set up the second score when he blocked a kick on the Beall 16. Three plays later Courrier toted the leather over from the five. Rick Kephart's kick for the point was good.

Courrier, in addition to scoring both touchdowns, accounted for most of Keyser's seven first downs. Landes blocked two kicks. Others standing out on the offense for KHS were Webb, Morris and Burns while Wilson, Raines and Burns played good defensively.

Beall was held to 45 yards overland but the Mountain City team completed six of 12 passes for 90 yards. Keyser piled up 150 net yards rushing.

Coach Ray Hull's eleven threatened in the second period by advancing to the Keyser four but three plays later the visitors were thrown back to the 11 where they lost the ball on downs. Lineups:

Littler, Morey Reach National Amateur Finals

Defeat Cudd, Albert, Title Match Today

By WILL GRIMSLEY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 18 (AP)—A pair of tournament toughies with contrasting temperaments, cool Gene Littler of La Jolla, Calif., and nervous Dale Morey of Indianapolis, will play tomorrow for the 53rd National Amateur Golf Championship.

The 23-year-old California Navy airman and the wiry 32-year-old ex-professional snuffed out the bids of two young collegians today in the wind-swept semi-finals over the Oklahoma City Golf and Country Club course.

Littler, the Walker Cup member, drilling even par golf through gusts that reached 43 miles per hour, put down Bruce Cudd, 20-year-old Portland (Ore.) University sophomore, in a near record beating, 10 and 8.

The jumpy Morey, gobbling vitamin pills and guzzling orange juice to combat a nagging cold, took early command and never let go in a 5 and 4 victory over Don Albert of Alliance, Ohio, Purdue University's Big Ten Conference champion.

Fred Scampers Ten Yards For Lone TD In Second Quarter

Fred Barbe took a pitch-out and scored from ten yards out in the second quarter to give Coach Chester Payne's Ridgeley High School Blackhawks a 7-0 victory over Circleville High School's Indians yesterday in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Ridgeley.

Ridgeley had three other opportunities to score but were stopped by penalties. First downs were 9-3 in Ridgeley's favor.

The game was highlighted by the kicking of Kenny Hartman and the offensive blocking of Bob Bradley, fullback. It was Hartman's kicking that was instrumental in setting up the only score of the game.

Other Ridgeley standouts were Donnie Wolford, halfback, and Ivan Wilson, Paul Lockard and Jim Summers on the line.

Champ Floored Early, Gets Split Decision

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan got off the deck from his first knockdown since 1948 to retain his title by winning a split 15 round decision from rugged little Carmen Basilio of this area tonight in his sixth title defense.

Rabid Basilio partisans stormed around ringside after the decision was announced, yelling at the officials in derision. A cordon of police with drawn billy clubs surrounded the ring to prevent any trouble.

From the moment that the 26-year-old ex-Marine dropped the sleek champion with a left hook early in the second round, it was an exciting battle. The knockdown came as a startling shock to the wise guys who had made Gavilan a solid 4 to 1 choice.

LOST TWO YARDS

DETROIT (AP) — Pete Retzlaff, Detroit Lions rookie fullback, was thrown for a loss only once in two years of college football, and that was for two yards. His rushing at South Dakota State totaled 2,027 yards in 19 games.

Allegany Opens With Patterson Park Eleven Here Tonight

As You Were

(This is the 165th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor See if you can identify them by their photo.)

This series on sports personalities would be incomplete without the inclusion of this colorful pitcher, who, when 18 years old, starred for Piedmont in in 1905, was with Cumberland in 1906 and won 43 games while twirling for the Pittsburgh Pirates from 1907 until 1910.

He was born at Govanstown, Baltimore County, Md., November 9, 1886 and will mark his 67th birthday this year. He was a righthander, 6 feet tall and weighed 178 pounds in his active days.

According to William J. Niland, 310 Park Street, J. Frank Forester, who operated a men's haberdashery at Piedmont, 48 years ago, was instrumental in bringing this pitcher to Piedmont, W. Va. and it was there he attracted outside attention. John Amen, a catcher, also was imported from Baltimore. Piedmont played its games on what was known as "The Island" at Westernport, present location of Memorial Park, but there were no houses in that neighborhood in those days.

This pitcher went into organized ball in 1906 as a member of the Providence (R. I.) Club of the Eastern League, and instead of getting a chance to do any hurling there he was sent to Cumberland (Md.) team of the P.O.M. (Pennsylvania, Ohio and Maryland) League. Cumberland finished fifth with a 50-48 record that season.

Bill McKechnie, now coach of the Boston Red Sox, and former manager of the Pirates, Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds, played with Washington, Pa., in the P.O.M. League in 1906 and 1907.

Pittsburgh obtained this moundsman in 1907 and farmed him out to Wheeling of the Central League, recalling him in September after he had won 13 games and lost 10 for the West Virginia team. Six of his victories were shutouts.

In the very first game he pitched for the Pirates that September he shut out St. Louis, and one week later he pitched a no-hitter to beat Brooklyn's Superbas at old Exposition Park in Pittsburgh, 2 to 1. That was on Sept. 20, 1907, and Brooklyn's run was scored in the 4th inning by Emil Batch on wild throws to first base by himself and Honus Wagner. Before the close of the 1907 season the righthander won five games and lost one for Pittsburgh.

He had a big year in 1908, winning 23 games for Pittsburgh while losing eight. He had a 13-and-8 record in 1909 in helping to win the pennant that year. In the 1909 World Series he was the only pitcher apart from "Babe" Adams to win a game. He bagged the third game of the series at Detroit on October 11 by the score of 8 to 6. Among the four men he struck out was Ty Cobb.

We might add here that Pittsburgh won pennants in 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1909 and the four clubs were managed by Fred C. Clarke. There was no World Series in 1901 and 1902 because the National and American leaguers were at war. In 1909 the Pirates beat Detroit four out of seven games in the World Series. Charles "Babe" Adams won three of the contests. Adams, incidentally, is the same fellow who managed the Johnstown Club of the Middle Atlantic League early in the 1927 season and was succeeded by "Chief" Bender in mid-season. Cumberland beat Bender's club, second half winner, for the championship.

Other members of Pittsburgh's 1909 World Champions included Howard Camnitz, Sam Leever, Albert Leifield, "Deacon" Phillippe, Harry Camnitz, Vic Willis, George Gibson, John Peter "Honus" Wagner, Tommy Leach, "Ham" Hyatt and J. Owen "Chief" Wilson, whose 36 three-baggers in 1912 still stands as a major league record.

The pitcher pictured here appeared in 20 games with the Pirates in 1910, winning two and losing three. He was released and never pitched in the majors again. In his three seasons, plus September of 1907, he pitched 93 games for the Pirates and his complete won and lost record was 43-20.

And here's something worth noting. His no-hitter in 1907 stood as the only game of that kind ever pitched by a Pirate until Cliff Chambers turned in one at Boston on May 6, 1951.

What's his name?

He is Nicholas (Nick) Maddox, who has been living at Millvale, a suburb of Pittsburgh, for many years. Last year he had a stepson pitching for Millvale High School. The lad goes by the name of Jimmy Duffy.

We are indebted to James J. "Jimmy" Long, publicity director of the Pittsburgh Pirates, for his cooperation in providing the information on Maddox's record and Nick's present whereabouts. The photo of Maddox, taken in 1909 when Nick was in the World Series, is being used by special permission of Paul Gallen's Sports Art Gallery.

Ernie Wolfe, Hagerstown, has been shifted from end to a guard position for the opener.

Clippers Are Unbeaten For Two Seasons

Won Seven League Titles; Game Set For 8 At Stadium

Allegany High School has picked what looms as a tartar for its opening game of the football season when it takes on Coach Irv Biasi's Patterson Park High Clippers of Baltimore tonight at 8 o'clock at the local stadium.

Undefeated in eight games last season and unbeaten and tied once in eight contests in 1952, the Clippers come here with the intention of making it two straight over the Campers whom they whipped in the Monumental City last September by the score of 26-0.

Biasi, former Western Maryland football, basketball and track star, has been head coach of the Clippers for the past eight years and his teams have won 56, lost one and tied two games. Patterson Park has won seven Maryland Scholastic League championships and eight Baltimore public school titles.

John Sansone, assistant to Biasi for the past seven years, is a graduate of the University of Maryland.

Patterson Park lost 25 members of its 1952 squad through graduation and five are over the age limit of 19. Among the missing is Johnny Bish, sensational half, who scored three of the Clippers' four touchdowns in last year's contest to give the Monumental City eleven a 20-0 lead in the first half.

Making their 1953 debut, the Campers will be playing their eleventh game under Roy Lester, former West Virginia University player, who took over the reins at the start of the 1952 campaign. The locals won five, lost four and tied one last season.

Ellis Wisler, tackle, and Bernard Beerman, guard, will captain AHS in the initial contest.

The 1953 edition of Allegany teams shapes up very good in spite of the fact that Dave Walton and Charles "Chuck" Eirich, backs, and Ralph Shaffer, Walt Bosley and Joe Nave, linemen, were lost through graduation.

Coach Lester retains Ellis Wisler, tackle; Bernie Beerman, All-City guard who has been shifted to tackle; George Reynolds, guard and backfielders Jim Hoffman and Dick Rank who were first stringers last fall. Bob Kirtley, Eddie Joyce and Fred Wartsack, who played reserve backfield roles are also available as are several linemen who saw plenty of service in understudy roles.

Hoffman is reported to be ailing and since he figures prominently in Lester's plans this season it would be a tough blow if the first string quarterback does not get into the opener. If Jim fails to start he will be replaced by Kirtley. The AHS mentor is still hopeful that Hoffman will play in part of tonight's contest.

Indications are that a large crowd will be on hand for the first Saturday night game of the season. After this contest the locals will not appear at home again until Friday October 9 when Keyser High is met here. Allegany will play a 9-game schedule this season that includes Beall, Hagerstown and Martinsburg, away, and Keyser, Montgomery Blair (Silver Spring), LaSalle, Elkins and Fort Hill at home.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Martin Given O. K. To Exercise Horses On Maryland Tracks

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Former jockey Robert J. Martin, suspended for 10 years in 1951 on charges he bet on a horse other than his own mount, today received permission to return to Maryland tracks as an exercise boy.

The State Racing Commission said he will be permitted to enter the tracks prior to noon each day, effective Sunday, to exercise horses before the regular racing schedule. The rest of the suspension remains in effect.

It was the first concession the commission had granted the 25-year-old Baltimore rider since he was ousted May 11, 1951. Last December it refused him a similar request.

Martin, who had previously been penalized 26 times in six years for rules infractions, was given the 10-year suspension after a track detective testified he had heard the jockey place a wager by telephone on a horse he was riding against at Laurel.

Martin was a top rider on the Maryland circuit at the time.

Attendance Is Up

MONTREAL, Sept. 18 (AP)—International Baseball League attendance for 1953 was the best since 1950, President Frank J. Shaughnessy said today.

Paid attendance totaled 1,714,211 an increase of 14,207 over 1952 and approximately 100,000 more than in 1951.

As You Were

(This is the 165th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor See if you can identify them by their photo.)

This series on sports personalities would be incomplete without the inclusion of this colorful pitcher, who, when 18 years old, starred for Piedmont in in 1905, was with Cumberland in 1906 and won 43 games while twirling for the Pittsburgh Pirates from 1907 until 1910.

He was born at Govanstown, Baltimore County, Md., November 9, 1886 and will mark his 67th birthday this year. He was a righthander, 6 feet tall and weighed 178 pounds in his active days.

According to William J. Niland, 310 Park Street, J. Frank Forester, who operated a men's haberdashery at Piedmont, 48 years ago, was instrumental in bringing this pitcher to Piedmont, W. Va. and it was there he attracted outside attention. John Amen, a catcher, also was imported from Baltimore. Piedmont played its games on what was known as "The Island" at Westernport, present location of Memorial Park, but there were no houses in that neighborhood in those days.

This pitcher went into organized ball in 1906 as a member of the Providence (R. I.) Club of the Eastern League, and instead of getting a chance to do any hurling there he was sent to Cumberland (Md.) team of the P.O.M. (Pennsylvania, Ohio and Maryland) League. Cumberland finished fifth with a 50-48 record that season.

Bill McKechnie, now coach of the Boston Red Sox, and former manager of the Pirates, Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds, played with Washington, Pa., in the P.O.M. League in 1906 and 1907.

Pittsburgh obtained this moundsman in 1907 and farmed him out to Wheeling of the Central League, recalling him in September after he had won 13 games and lost 10 for the West Virginia team. Six of his victories were shutouts.

In the very first game he pitched for the Pirates that September he shut out St. Louis, and one week later he pitched a no-hitter to beat Brooklyn's Superbas at old Exposition Park in Pittsburgh, 2 to 1. That was on Sept. 20, 1907, and Brooklyn's run was scored in the 4th inning by Emil Batch on wild throws to first base by himself and Honus Wagner. Before the close of the 1907 season the righthander won five games and lost one for Pittsburgh.

He had a big year in 1908, winning 23 games for Pittsburgh while losing eight. He had a 13-and-8 record in 1909 in helping to win the pennant that year. In the 1909 World Series he was the only pitcher apart from "Babe" Adams to win a game. He bagged the third game of the series at Detroit on October 11 by the score of 8 to 6. Among the four men he struck out was Ty Cobb.

We might add here that Pittsburgh won pennants in 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1909 and the four clubs were managed by Fred C. Clarke. There was no World Series in 1901 and 1902 because the National and American leaguers were at war. In 1909 the Pirates beat Detroit four out of seven games in the World Series. Charles "Babe" Adams won three of the contests. Adams, incidentally, is the same fellow who managed the Johnstown Club of the Middle Atlantic League early in the 1927 season and was succeeded by "Chief" Bender in mid-season. Cumberland beat Bender's club, second half winner, for the championship.

Other members of Pittsburgh's 1909 World Champions included Howard Camnitz, Sam Leever, Albert Leifield, "Deacon" Phillippe, Harry Camnitz, Vic Willis, George Gibson, John Peter "Honus" Wagner, Tommy Leach, "Ham" Hyatt and J. Owen "Chief" Wilson, whose 36 three-baggers in 1912 still stands as a major league record.

The pitcher pictured here appeared in 20 games with the Pirates in 1910, winning two and losing three. He was released and never pitched in the majors again. In his three seasons, plus September of 1907, he pitched 93 games for the Pirates and his complete won and lost record was 43-20.

And here's something worth noting. His no-hitter in 1907 stood as the only game of that kind ever pitched by a Pirate until Cliff Chambers turned in one at Boston on May 6, 1951.

This one-time pitching star who was never forgotten by the oldtimers living in this section now resides near Pittsburgh.

What's his name?

He is Nicholas (Nick) Maddox, who has been living at Millvale, a suburb of Pittsburgh, for many years. Last year he had a stepson pitching for Millvale High School. The lad goes by the name of Jimmy Duffy.

We are indebted to James J. "Jimmy" Long, publicity director of the Pittsburgh Pirates, for his cooperation in providing the information on Maddox's record and Nick's present whereabouts. The photo of Maddox, taken in 1909 when Nick was in the World Series, is being used by special permission of Paul Gallen's Sports Art Gallery.

Beard Will Start

Dickie Beard, former Fort Hill backfield ace, will be at a halfback post tonight when Virginia Tech's Gobblers open their football season tonight at Bluefield, W. Va., with Marshall College.

Ernie Wolfe, Hagerstown, has been shifted from end to a guard position for the opener.

Clippers Are Unbeaten For Two Seasons

Won Seven League Titles; Game Set For 8 At Stadium

Allegany High School has picked what looms as a tartar for its opening game of the football season when it takes on Coach Irv Biasi's Patterson Park High Clippers of Baltimore tonight at 8 o'clock at the local stadium.

Undefeated in eight games last season and unbeaten and tied once in eight contests in 1952, the Clippers come here with the intention of making it two straight over the Campers whom they whipped in the Monumental City last September by the score of 26-0.

Biasi, former Western Maryland football, basketball and track star has been head coach of the Clippers for the past eight years and his teams have won 56, lost one and tied two games. Patterson Park has won seven Maryland Scholastic League championships and eight Baltimore public school titles.

John Sansone, assistant to Biasi for the past seven years, is a graduate of the University of Maryland.

Patterson Park lost 25 members of its 1952 squad through graduation and five are over the age limit of 19. Among the missing is Johnny Bish, sensational half, who scored three of the Clippers' four touchdowns in last year's contest to give the Monumental City eleven a 20-0 lead in the first half.

Making their 1953 debut, the Campers will be playing their eleventh game under Roy Lester, former West Virginia University player, who took over the reins at the start of the 1952 campaign. The locals won five, lost four and tied one last season.

Ellis Wisler, tackle, and Bernard Beerman, guard, will captain AHS in the initial contest.

The 1953 edition of Allegany teams shapes up very good in spite of the fact that Dave Walton and Charles "Chuck" Eirich, backs, and Ralph Shaffer, Walt Bosley and Joe Nave, linemen, were lost through graduation.

Coach Lester retains Ellis Wisler, tackle; Bernie Beerman, All-City guard who has been shifted to tackle; George Reynolds, guard and backfielders Jim Hoffman and Dick Rank who were first stringers last fall. Bob Kirtley, Eddie Joyce and Fred Wartsack, who played reserve backfield roles are also available as are several linemen who saw plenty of service in understudy roles.

Hoffman is reported to be ailing and since he figures prominently in Lester's plans this season it would be a tough blow if the first string quarterback does not get into the opener. If Jim fails to start he will be replaced by Kirtley. The AHS mentor is still hopeful that Hoffman will play in part of tonight's contest.

Indications are that a large crowd will be on hand for the first Saturday night game of the season. After this contest the locals will not appear at home again until Friday October 9 when Keyser High is met here. Allegany will play a 9-game schedule this season that includes Beall, Hagerstown and Martinsburg, away, and Keyser, Montgomery Blair (Silver Spring), LaSalle, Elkins and Fort Hill at home.

Here are the probable starting lineup for tonight:

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Martin Given O. K. To Exercise Horses On Maryland Tracks

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Former jockey Robert J. Martin, suspended for 10 years in 1951 on charges he bet on a horse other than his own mount, today received permission to return to Maryland tracks as an exercise boy.

The State Racing Commission said he will be permitted to enter the tracks prior to noon each day, effective Sunday, to exercise horses before the regular racing schedule. The rest of the suspension remains in effect.

It was the first concession the commission had granted the 25-year-old Baltimore rider since he was ousted May 11, 1951. Last December it refused him a similar request.

Martin, who had previously been penalized 26 times in six years for rules infractions, was given the 10-year suspension after a track detective testified he had heard the jockey place a wager by telephone on a horse he was riding against at Laurel.

Martin was a top rider on the Maryland circuit at the time.

Attendance Is Up

MONTREAL, Sept. 18 (AP)—International Baseball League attendance for 1953 was the best since 1950, President Frank J. Shaughnessy said today.

Paid attendance totaled 1,714,211 an increase of 14,207 over 1952 and approximately 100,000 more than in 1951.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 18—(INS)—Linda Darnell is making another picture in Europe but not in Italy. This time she goes to Biarritz where she meets Director David Miller.

On Monday David takes off for France where he will direct Linda in an original suspense drama, "Dark Of Night," which he is also producing.

After David finishes the Darnell epic he'll make still another picture for United Artists. This one, called "Silver Nutmeg," will be filmed in Ceylon and England.

David, who is a personable young man, directed Joan Crawford's highly successful "Sudden Fear" and has been her escort on any number of occasions.

Attention Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso and other places in Texas where my column appears: Elaine Stewart, Dore Schary and Richard Widmark are headed your way to make an appearance with "Take The High Ground."

Just before Dore pulled out for the great state of Texas, he told me that he has signed Elaine Stewart for "Main Iron," the only girl in this boomtown story which has to do with railroads. So far Elaine is the only one chosen in the cast, but I happen to know MGM wants Dick Widmark.

Just filled with news of Europe, Baron Polan arrived in town to visit his sister, Mrs. Jerry Wald. Baron told me that Jane Morgan, the girl he discovered in a Paris night spot, opens at the Mocambo on Oct. 6.

Baron, Bing Crosby, and Bill Morrow went to hear another singer and remained to applaud Jane. She'll do her famous "My New Paris Hat" number, in which she wears a series of Fred Frederics hats.

On the romantic side, Jane is in love with Charles Wilson, who is about to get a divorce from Bonnie Edwards, nee Bonnie Mandeville, nee Bonnie Babst.

The good old circus days will descend upon San Francisco when "Mocambo" opens Sept. 23 at the Warrick Theatre. Never did a picture need ballyhoo less. It's so good I have an idea the crowd will not walk but run to the theatre.

Anyhow, I am told that down Market Street will trek a safari with a gorilla in a cage; Frank Allen, the white hunter in the picture, and native boys bring up the procession.

This I'd like to see, but again I repeat, this is a picture that's so good everyone will want to see it with or without a safari.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Sophie Tucker, bless her, writes (and in long hand) to ask me to come to her golden jubilee in New York Oct. 4.

It's a girl, Claudie Ann, for the Harold Hildebrands. Papa is in the Los Angeles Examiner drama department, and this is his second child. He also has a son, Jim, age 2.

Just about everyone in town was at the Tommy Thompson party at the International Galleries honoring Nina Anderton. The guests spent much of the time admiring the statues, furniture and paintings belonging to the host. An interesting sculptored hand was that of Rudolph Valentino and valued at $10,000.

Had to leave early to go to work on a radio interview I am doing with Anne Paxter and Tyrone Power on next Tuesday's radio show. Had dinner later at the Marquis. I broke down and ate some fetuccini, and it's even better than Alfredo's spaghetti in Rome.

The Marquis was packed. It was nice to see Joe, the maitre d who reigned at Romanoff's for so long. He's now with Paul Verlengia and greeting many old friends.

The father and mother of Paul Brinkman were at the Marquis and said they were having their first night out. They're baby sitting with the four children of Jeanne Crain and Paul while Jeanne is making a picture in Africa.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Down in the Valley...

Here's a sportsworthy tidbit for all you shufflin' sports. The Valley shall henceforth and furthermore be known as shuffler's paradise! Yup! We've just installed the equipment . . . board and bombs and talcum, or whatever it is makes them things slide like crazy. Fact of the matter, we're all gone on this lazy man's sport. (But kid yourself, not . . . brother . . . it takes skill with a capital SK). It's a lotta' fun and a modicum of exercise . . . say, like bendin' the elbow . . . and it makes for an interesting pass-the-timer! We say we're gone and truly so (thank you Mr. Hemingway) . . . all the way to joining the County Shuffleboard League . . . which is about as high as we can go. The board? Oh, yes, it's in our spacious Down-In-The-Valley-Stairs in case you don't spot it at first quick glance. Come on all ye shufflers . . . let's see your skill!

Does temper get between you and other people? A "cooling-off" period will protect your charm and save recriminations!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

As surely as tarnish hides the beauty of silver, so a display of temper corrodes a woman's charm.

As Aristotle so pithily put it, "Anybody can be angry, that is easy; but to be angry with the right person, and to the right degree, and at the right time, and for the right purpose and in the right way—that is not easy."

In fact, it is so difficult that the best thing to do when you feel anger rising is to summon all your forces and reasoning power to stifle it. If you stop to weigh the rightness of your anger, you are lost. The very nature of anger makes you believe that you are right, right in every way.

It is not enough merely to restrain a flow of accusative words. There are many other ways, subtle ways, that perhaps inflict even greater hurt and certainly are greater despoilers of a woman's charm.

Tempery Ways

The "cut direct" is, of course, seldom resorted to. And few will allow a sneer or a snarl to show on the face. But sarcastic words, phrase or tone of voice are tools of temper that are greatly overworked.

Among adults who consider themselves to be cultured persons, the polite sulk or pout is one of the most popular weapons of temper. Seldom is this carried to the point of not speaking at all. Questions are answered politely, but no warmth of human feeling is allowed to pass the lips, until sufficient time elapses to adequately punish the person who caused the temper.

Actually, there is nothing adult nor polite in such an action. Often the person who is given the treatment is entirely unaware of what he or she said or did that brought on the storm. In the interests of good human relationships, it is important to cultivate a state of calm and learn to discuss your differences with others openly and without a display of emotion.

It is purely a matter of self discipline, as are so many facets of charm. It is always hard not to speak of what is uppermost in your mind. But the next time you feel your temper rising to a dangerous level, if you cannot trust yourself to discuss the matter at the moment, change the subject quickly to allow yourself a cooling-off period. Then clear the air with a discussion that is fair to all concerned.

In that way, you will have no regrets; there will be no recriminations. Your health won't be damaged by a dangerous rise in blood pressure. Your beauty won't be damaged by frowns and grimaces. And no scars will be left on your charm.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success — by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness and lack of proper modulation. Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

CAN YOU AFFORD IT?

LEADING a jack toward an ace-queen, when you plan a finesse if the king is not played by the first defender, is a matter of habit with some players. In spite of occasional profligate waste of the first honor, they seem never to learn the importance of conserving it upon occasion. Often such an honor will be covered by the king, forcing out the ace. The queen then is of course good for the second trick in the suit. But those developments promote the ten into the third-round high card for the opposition. Can you afford to do that?

	♠ J 8 6 2 ♥ A Q 8 ♦ Q 10 7 ♣ J 9 7
♠ 10 7 4 ♥ K 9 4 ♦ 9 8 4 ♣ 10 6 3 2	N W E S	♠ K ♥ 7 6 5 3 ♦ A K J 2 ♣ K 8 5 4
	♠ A Q 9 5 3 ♥ J 10 2 ♦ 6 5 3 ♣ A Q

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♦	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

The diamond 9 lead enabled the defenders to get three tricks in a hurry, so that South had to take all the rest after East returned the club 4. A sizeup of the problem indicated that his only hope was to win finesses in three suits. So he began by putting in the ♠Q on the club lead.

The next finesse try was in hearts, where he led the J, which was covered by the K and A, leaving South with the high Q and 10 for the next two tricks in that suit. Now he made the crucial try in spades, leading the J from dummy. On went the K from East, forcing the A. The Q was now good for the second trump trick, but West's 10 remained out as a sure winner to set the contract.

Notice the difference between the heart and spade finesses. In hearts, South could afford to squander the J, since it was backed up by the 10. No such situation existed in spades. There, if the K covered the J, and it happened to be a singleton, with West holding the twice-guarded 10, this mode of play could be disastrous, as it was. South could not afford the luxury of leading the J.

As a generality, a low card rather than an honor should be led for a finesse unless there is a need for trying to preserve the lead in the first hand.

* * *

Your Weekend Question

What would you consider the most important thing for a declarer to do in his planning the method whereby he will try to make a No Trump game contract? Can you give a clear-cut example of how neglecting that essential caused failure of a contract which should have been easy to make?

Railroads Are Hardest Hit As Market Declines Quietly

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP) — A quiet decline today in the stock market put it down slightly on the week.

Today's market was undistinguished and followed a pattern of liquidation for the weekend that has appeared in so many Friday markets.

Also lower were steels, motors, coppers, oils, and chemicals. The utilities were off slightly on balance.

Twentieth Century-Fox was at the top of the most active list, as it was yesterday, unchanged at 15⅝. Yesterday the stock lost 1⅞. Its volume today was 27,200 shares traded.

CAN YOU AFFORD IT?

LEADING a jack toward an ace-queen, when you plan a finesse if the king is not played by the first defender, is a matter of habit with some players. In spite of occasional profligate waste of the first honor, they seem never to learn the importance of conserving it upon occasion. Often such an honor will be covered by the king, forcing out the ace. The queen then is of course good for the second trick in the suit. But those developments promote the ten into the third-round high card for the opposition. Can you afford to do that?

	♠ J 8 6 2 ♥ A Q 8 ♦ Q 10 7 ♣ J 9 7
♠ 10 7 4 ♥ K 9 4 ♦ 9 8 4 ♣ 10 6 3 2	N W E S	♠ K ♥ 7 6 5 3 ♦ A K J 2 ♣ K 8 5 4
	♠ A Q 9 5 3 ♥ J 10 2 ♦ 6 5 3 ♣ A Q

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♦	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

The diamond 9 lead enabled the defenders to get three tricks in a hurry, so that South had to take all the rest after East returned the club 4. A sizeup of the problem indicated that his only hope was to win finesses in three suits. So he began by putting in the ♠Q on the club lead.

The next finesse try was in hearts, where he led the J, which was covered by the K and A, leaving South with the high Q and 10 for the next two tricks in that suit. Now he made the crucial try in spades, leading the J from dummy. On went the K from East, forcing the A. The Q was now good for the second trump trick, but West's 10 remained out as a sure winner to set the contract.

Notice the difference between the heart and spade finesses. In hearts, South could afford to squander the J, since it was backed up by the 10. No such situation existed in spades. There, if the K covered the J, and it happened to be a singleton, with West holding the twice-guarded 10, this mode of play could be disastrous, as it was. South could not afford the luxury of leading the J.

As a generality, a low card rather than an honor should be led for a finesse unless there is a need for trying to preserve the lead in the first hand.

Your Weekend Question

What would you consider the most important thing for a declarer to do in his planning the method whereby he will try to make a No Trump game contract? Can you give a clear-cut example of how neglecting that essential caused failure of a contract which should have been easy to make?

Railroads Are Hardest Hit As Market Declines Quietly

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP) — A quiet decline today in the stock market put it down slightly on the week.

The fall today followed three successive advances that pulled the market up materially from the low of the year reached Monday.

Today's market was undistinguished and followed a pattern of liquidation for the weekend that has appeared in so many Friday markets.

Railroads were the hardest hit of the major divisions and accounted for the greater part of the average decline.

Also lower were steels, motors, coppers, oils, and chemicals. The utilities were off slightly on balance.

Twentieth Century-Fox was at the top of the most active list, as it was yesterday, unchanged at 15⅝. Yesterday the stock lost 17/8. Its volume today was 27,200 shares traded.

Md. GOP Leaders 'Quacks,' Charges Former Governor

Baltimore Mayor Attacks Mahoney

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

OCEAN CITY, Md., Sept. 18 (AP)—Former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr. tonight accused Maryland's Republican administration of "political quackery" and failing to keep its promises.

He also said in a speech prepared for the State Convention of Young Democrats that their party has been damaged in the past by primary campaigns that smacked of "barnyard squabbles."

It was Lane's first address at a statewide party gathering since Republican Gov. McKeldin turned him out of office three years ago. And it was one of his bluntest, in or out of office.

The former governor urged Democratic candidates to submerge personal ambitions to state service and wage campaigns on the issues.

He said again that he had no desire to run for public office.

D'Alesandro Beats Mahoney

His speech at the main convention banquet followed a similar but more acidly phrased plea for party unity by Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore. But while Lane picked out no individual target, D'Alesandro's charges of "mud slinging and character assassination" were aimed at George P. Mahoney.

The Mayor also made a point of asserting that he was in the race for governor to stay. He already has announced. Mahoney, who lost the nomination in 1950 by a hair and then was defeated last year for the U. S. Senate, has done all but declare himself a candidate.

He said that in 1950 "the flames of passion and prejudice were fanned to a white heat."

Later he said: "The opposition to us has been saturated with intellectual dishonesty and political quackery, and there is very little for which we need apologize."

GOP Grabs Credit, Says Lane

Lane charged McKeldin, by references to the administration or "the Republican standardbearer", has ignored campaign pledges to eliminate the sales and real estate taxes.

He said the new 12-year program for building roads which McKeldin backed in the last General Assembly only carried out what the previous administration had started. Commenting on roads, he said: "There has been a substantial increase in the number of personnel employed to do less work".

Ever since the Republicans took over the Statehouse, "there has been a mad rush to attach the label of this administration to every worthwhile completed public improvement that had been previously planned," Lane contended.

James C. Morton, Jr., Annapolis lawyer and the outgoing Young Democratic president, said the party "ostensibly remains leaderless" a half year after the death of Robert B. Ennis.

Dippel Backs Mahoney

Ennis was state chairman, and there has been no move to replace him. Morton, an avowed contender for the post, protested postponing the state central committee's decision until next summer so the nominee for governor could handpick a man.

Mahoney was not present to hear D'Alesandro's thinly disguised attack on him. Although the mayor didn't mention his potential opponent by name in his keynote speech, he left little doubt Mahoney was the target for some of his remarks.

But across the bay in Baltimore, Mahoney got the early blessing of one state senator. Sen. Dippel (D-Balto 3rd) said he would support Mahoney in next year's primary and asked fellow Democrats in the senate to do the same.

Dippel said in a letter that "I am not awaiting an edict from a smoke-filled room . . . Instead I am joining with the 'rank and file' of my fellow Democrats of Baltimore City and shall support George P. Mahoney for the Democratic nomination for governor."

Mudslinging Won't Work

"We know there will be no Democratic victory in 1954 if there is a repetition of the kind of primary we experienced in the last two state-wide elections.

"Mud slinging, character assassination and the destruction of the people's confidence in the integrity of Democratic party leaders and public officials are the one sure way to bring about another Republican victory in 1954."

"Our last Democratic state administration will go down in history as one of the most progressive in the entire history of our state. But did this fact help in the last gubernatorial campaign? You know the answer.

"Blinded by mud — Democratic mud, if you please—the people of Maryland turned that great Democratic administration out of office.

"There was a change of heart by many voters soon after that election but the damage had been done . . ."

'Whistle-Bait' Uniforms

Cost Of Subway And Bridge Is Sought By City

Millenson Opposes Alternate Program

City officials have asked the State Roads Commission to provide estimates of the cost of two parts of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission's alternate proposal to the traditional Crosstown Bridge solution to Cumberland's major traffic problems.

The first request concerns an underpass or subway in the vicinity of Williams Street.

The other request is for an estimate of the cost of constructing a bridge which is included in the alternate plan.

A subway at or near the Williams Street crossing was one of the items included in a master traffic plan prepared by Albert S. Paye, a member of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, which includes a circumferential route around the north end of the city as a substitute for the Overhead Bridge.

Subway Is Practical

Paye reported that a study of Flood Control plans show that a subway could be installed at the closed William Street crossing or in that immediate vicinity.

Some funds for the work would be available. When the Williams Street grade crossing was closed by the city, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad agreed to contribute $50,000 toward any grade elimination project or near that point.

Two more underpasses have been suggested in the course of current talks on the traffic programs. Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, pointed out at a meeting Wednesday that subways have also been suggested at Frederick and Bedford Streets.

The proposed North End bridge, which would cross Route 40, railroad tracks and Wills Creek, would begin at Columbia Avenue and return to grade at Wills Creek Avenue.

Local Plan Cheaper

Estimated cost of the SRC Overhead Bridge, which is included in Maryland's 12-year-program, is about $9,000,000.

The Mayor and Council, at a meeting with the Planning and Zoning Commission Wednesday night, agreed to ask the State nate program NPBU?e-old Road Commission to study Paye's alternate program.

Norman Pritchett, SRC location engineer, declared last week the State Roads Commission wants Cumberland to get the best route, and promised the commission will make engineering studies of any logical solution to the problem.

Plan Under Fire

George Millenson, local businessman and member of the Overhead Bridge Committee, declared the Zoning and Planning Commission exceeded its authority in connection with proposals for a crosstown structure.

Millenson said that the alternate plan presented at a meeting Wednesday night by the Zoning and Planning Commission was not discussed or considered at any meeting of the Overhead Bridge Committee despite the fact that James Alfred Avirett is chairman of both groups.

In a letter to the Mayor and City Council outlining his views in the matter, Millenson stated that under the circumstances he must tender his resignation as a member of the Overhead Bridge Committee "since it is apparent that the usefulness of the committee ceases to exist." Millenson also sent a copy of his letter to Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission.

Interested From Start

Millenson said he was appointed to the Overhead Bridge Committee a number of years ago by Mayor Thomas S. Post, but had been interested in the bridge program since it was first presented by the late Mayor Thomas W. Koon.

"I have always felt that the Overhead Bridge Committee was appointed to take the matter of the bridge out of the hands of the Zoning and Planning Commission since both groups have the same chairman."

Millenson said he attended three conferences in Baltimore with officials of the State Roads Commission during the past two years, at which the overhead bridge plan was discussed. He also said he has given considerable time toward the study of the traffic problem "we have in Cumberland" and the adverse effect it is having on the general economic condition of the community.

Millenson pointed out that Cumberland is the shopping center for the tri-state area and, as a necessity, must offer shoppers many

State Planning Group Narrows Project List

Frostburg Residence Hall Is Included

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP) — The State Planning Commission which started with some 67 million dollars in requests, today recommended a capital improvement program for state institutions and agencies totaling $9,767,300 for the 1955 fiscal year.

The program submitted to State Budget Director James G. Rennie, represents projects screened from requests totaling $67,794,890 of which $45,462,304 had been marked "urgent."

The largest allocation recommended was $1,865,000 for the University of Maryland with $1,140,000 for projects at College Park.

They include rennovation of Calvert Hall, $90,000; a journalism building, $450,000; an annex to the administration building, $450,000, and a garage and repair shop, $150,000.

A new pharmacy building in Baltimore to cost $600,000 and $125,000 for Maryland State College at Princess Anne, were among the recommended spending program for the University.

The Commission also recommended $1,675,000 for the State Department of Education; $1,493,000 for the Department of Mental Hygiene and $1,185,000 for the Department of Correction.

Other recommendations were $873,000 for the Health Department, $704,100 for the department of welfare, $512,000 for the department of state forests and parks, $503,000 for Morgan State College, $450,000 for the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, $200,000 for the military department, $125,000 for the department of motor vehicles and $142,000 for the state police.

The largest item of construction for the department of mental hygiene was a medical and surgical building at Crownsville State Hospital, costing one million dollars. However, a footnote explained this recommendation was made pending a report by the Committee on Medical Care.

Council Studies Proposals On Zoning Areas

Controlled Centers Favored By Officials

Proposals to make four changes in this city's zoning ordinance were the chief topics at a meeting of the Mayor and Council yesterday afternoon.

On Monday, an ordinance providing for the changes got its first reading. It would (a) make the east side of Fayette Street Residential A between Washington and Greene Street, (b) make Maryland Avenue a business area, except for the part which is already industrial, (c) make Williams Street a business area from the city limits to Hilltop Drive and (d) make Louisiana Avenue abutting on Lots 12-16 of Block 17, Johnson Heights, a business area.

Objections Are Raised

It was pointed out that if more than 20 per cent of the nearby property owners object, any change in the present ordinance would have to be approved by a 4-1 vote.

A check of the Engineering Department showed that no objections have been raised to the first proposal, that more than 20 per cent of owners on Maryland Avenue object, less than that amount opposed the Williams Street change but that a 4-1 vote would be needed on the Louisiana Avenue spot, where a filling station has been proposed.

It was pointed out that if the council did not change Williams Street to a business area, legislation on spot zoning would prohibit adoption of the last item.

The ordinance will go to its second reading Monday.

During the discussion, city officials agreed that any change in the zoning laws should be accompanied by a definite plan.

Ask Controlled Plan

Mayor Roy W. Eves pointed out that the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission offered no plan for the use of the land to be changed from residential to business.

A shopping center could be established, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner said, but it should be fully controlled . . . and not changed until such controls are provided.

City officials decided to defer for another week action on the offer of Vincent A. Buchholtz to transfer property in the Narrows for $50,000 and an adjacent piece of property.

Pupil Personnel Leaders Will Go To Conference

State Session Starts Sept. 28

Representatives of the Pupil Personnel Department of the Allegany County public school system will attend the Pupil Personnel Conference of the State Department of Education Monday, September 28, through Thursday, October 1, at Enoch Pratt Library and Park Plaza Hotel, Baltimore.

Attending the entire conference will be Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel; Robert W. Jones, Miss Esther Carter and Frederick H. Sheeley, visiting teachers. On the opening day, parent discussion groups will get the major attention. Jones will serve as chairman of a panel discussion involving new leaders.

Higgins will be chairman of a panel discussion on the second day when juvenile protection is the chief topic. On the final day, when special education and its relation to pupil personnel are discussed, Webster and McCutchen will plan to attend.

Dinner Chairman

Dr. James E. Spitznas, a one-time high school principal in Allegany County but now director of instruction for the State Department of Education, will be the chairman at the Monday dinner meeting of the conference.

Rockwood War Widow Marries Husband's Escort

ROCKWOOD, Pa., Sept. 18 (AP)—The widow of a GI killed in Korea is a widow no more. She married the sergeant who escorted the body home—two days after he arrived.

The marriage took place two days before Pfc. Alton B. Sterner was buried in this little Pennsylvania town near the Maryland border. Sterner was killed in Korea June 19, 1953.

On Sept. 2, Sgt. Ira Frank Green arrived in Rockwood with Sterner's body. Army records show that Green, 25, from Waterbury Center, Vt., was regularly assigned to the Brooklyn, N. Y., Army Base but was discharged from the service on expiration of his enlistment today.

On Sept. 4, records in nearby Cumberland, Md., disclosed today, Green and Sterner's widow, 19-year-old Alma Marie Sterner, took out a marriage license in the Allegany County Courthouse. The 2-day waiting period was waived because Greeen was on travel orders and had to return to his base.

They were married almost immediately by the Rev. Robert L. Nair in the parsonage of Calvary Evangelical United Brethern Church in Cumberland.

Funeral director Roy Mickey said he did not see either the widow or the escort at the funeral service at the church or at the burial services on Sunday, Sept. 6.

A spokesman at the Brooklyn Army Base, confirming Green's assignment, said he violated no regulations.

Mrs. Green, located at the Waterbury Center home of her husband's parents, said she and Green "had been penpals for a long time." She said they intended to stay in Waterbury Center for a honeymoon and "then, maybe go to New York City to live."

She said Green was in Brooklyn, N. Y., obtaining his Army discharge.

"We're going to take legal steps to adopt my daughter, Carol Sue," she said.

Mrs. Green said she did not know that her late husband had been buried after her departure from Rockwood.

Ridgeley Corporal Returns From Korea

Cpl. Moon will fly from Oakland, Calif., to Camp Breckinridge, Ky., where he will await his discharge. His parents expect him home early next week. He will complete two years in service tomorrow.

Md. GOP Leaders 'Quacks,' Charges Former Governor

Baltimore Mayor Attacks Mahoney

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

OCEAN CITY, Md., Sept. 18 (AP)—Former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr. tonight accused Maryland's Republican administration of "political quackery" and failing to keep its promises.

He also said in a speech prepared for the State Convention of Young Democrats that their party has been damaged in the past by primary campaigns that smacked of "barnyard squabbles."

It was Lane's first address at a statewide party gathering since Republican Gov. McKeldin turned him out of office three years ago. And it was one of his bluntest, in or out of office.

The former governor urged Democratic candidates to submerge personal ambitions to state service and wage campaigns on the issues.

He said again that he had no desire to run for public office.

D'Alesandro Beats Mahoney

His speech at the main convention banquet followed a similar but more acidly phrased plea for party unity by Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore. But while Lane picked out no individual target, D'Alesandro's charges of "mud slinging and character assassination" were aimed at George P. Mahoney.

The Mayor also made a point of asserting that he was in the race for governor to stay. He already has announced. Mahoney, who lost the nomination in 1950 by a hair and then was defeated last year for the U. S. Senate, has done all but declare himself a candidate.

Lane took a swat at the Republicans for both their campaign methods and management of the state government.

He said that in 1950 "the flames of passion and prejudice were fanned to a white heat."

Later he said: "The opposition to us has been saturated with intellectual dishonesty and political quackery, and there is very little for which we need apologize."

GOP Grabs Credit, Says Lane

Lane charged McKeldin, by references to the administration or "the Republican standardbearer", has ignored campaign pledges to eliminate the sales and real estate taxes.

He said the new 12-year program for building roads which McKeldin backed in the last General Assembly only carried out what the previous administration had started. Commenting on roads, he said: "There has been a substantial increase in the number of personnel employed to do less work".

Ever since the Republicans took over the Statehouse, "there has been a mad rush to attach the label of this administration to every worthwhile completed public improvement that had been previously planned," Lane contended.

James C. Morton, Jr., Annapolis lawyer and the outgoing Young Democratic president, said the party "ostensibly remains leaderless" a half year after the death of Robert B. Ennis.

Dippel Backs Mahoney

Ennis was state chairman, and there has been no move to replace him. Morton, an avowed contender for the post, protested postponing the state central committee's decision until next summer so the nominee for governor could handpick a man.

Mahoney was not present to hear D'Alesandro's thinly disguised attack on him. Although the mayor didn't mention his potential opponent by name in his keynote speech, he left little doubt Mahoney was the target for some of his remarks.

But across the bay in Baltimore, Mahoney got the early blessing of one state senator. Sen. Dippel (D-Balto 3rd) said he would support Mahoney in next year's primary and asked fellow Democrats in the senate to do the same.

Dippel said in a letter that "I am not awaiting an edict from a smoke-filled room . . . Instead I am joining with the 'rank and file' of my fellow Democrats of Baltimore City and shall support George P. Mahoney for the Democratic nomination for governor."

Mudslinging Won't Work

D'Alesandro's keynote speech, just a few hours of the dinner talk by Former Gov. Lane, set forth this premise:

"We know there will be no Democratic victory in 1954 if there is a repetition of the kind of primary we experienced in the last two state-wide elections.

"Mud slinging, character assassination and the destruction of the people's confidence in the integrity of Democratic party leaders and public officials are the one sure way to bring about another Republican victory in 1954."

The Baltimore mayor took note of the 1950 primary campaign for governor and the 1952 senatorial primary in these words:

"Our last Democratic state administration will go down in history as one of the most progressive in the entire history of our state. But did this fact help in the last gubernatorial campaign? You know the answer.

"Blinded by mud — Democratic mud, if you please—the people of Maryland turned that great Democratic administration out of office.

"There was a change of heart by many voters soon after that election but the damage had been done . . ."

'Whistle-Bait' Uniforms

Cost Of Subway And Bridge Is Sought By City

Millenson Opposes Alternate Program

City officials have asked the State Roads Commission to provide estimates of the cost of two parts of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission's alternate proposal to the traditional Crosstown Bridge solution to Cumberland's major traffic problems.

The first request concerns an underpass or subway in the vicinity of Williams Street.

The other request is for an estimate of the cost of constructing a bridge which is included in the alternate plan.

A subway at or near the Williams Street crossing was one of the items included in a master traffic plan prepared by Albert S. Paye, a member of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, which includes a circumferential route around the north end of the city as a substitute for the Overhead Bridge.

Subway Is Practical

Paye reported that a study of Flood Control plans show that a subway could be installed at the closed William Street crossing or in that immediate vicinity.

Some funds for the work would be available. When the Williams Street grade crossing was closed by the city, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad agreed to contribute $50,000 toward any grade elimination project or near that point.

Two more underpasses have been suggested in the course of current talks on the traffic programs. Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, pointed out at a meeting Wednesday that subways have also been suggested at Frederick and Bedford Streets.

The proposed North End bridge, which would cross Route 40, railroad tracks and Wills Creek, would begin at Columbia Avenue and return to grade at Wills Creek Avenue.

Local Plan Cheaper

At a meeting held last week under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce, Paye estimated his plan would cost about $5,000,000.

Estimated cost of the SRC Overhead Bridge, which is included in Maryland's 12-year-program, is about $9,000,000.

The Mayor and Council, at a meeting with the Planning and Zoning Commission Wednesday night, agreed to ask the State nate program NPBU?e-old Road Commission to study Paye's alternate program.

Norman Pritchett, SRC location engineer, declared last week the State Roads Commission wants Cumberland to get the best route, and promised the commission will make engineering studies of any logical solution to the problem.

Plan Under Fire

George Millenson, local businessman and member of the Overhead Bridge Committee, declared the Zoning and Planning Commission exceeded its authority in connection with proposals for a crosstown structure.

Millenson said that the alternate plan presented at a meeting Wednesday night by the Zoning and Planning Commission was not discussed or considered at any meeting of the Overhead Bridge Committee despite the fact that James Alfred Avirett is chairman of both groups.

In a letter to the Mayor and City Council outlining his views in the matter, Millenson stated that under the circumstances he must tender his resignation as a member of the Overhead Bridge Committee "since it is apparent that the usefulness of the committee ceases to exist." Millenson also sent a copy of his letter to Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission.

Interested From Start

Millenson said he was appointed to the Overhead Bridge Committee a number of years ago by Mayor Thomas S. Post, but had been interested in the bridge program since it was first presented by the late Mayor Thomas W. Koon.

"I have always felt that the Overhead Bridge Committee was appointed to take the matter of the bridge out of the hands of the Zoning and Planning Commission since both groups have the same chairman."

Millenson said he attended three conferences in Baltimore with officials of the State Roads Commission during the past two years, at which the overhead bridge plan was discussed. He also said he has given considerable time toward the study of the traffic problem "we have in Cumberland" and the adverse effect it is having on the general economic condition of the community.

Millenson pointed out that Cumberland is the shopping center for the tri-state area and, as a necessity, must offer shoppers many

Rockwood War Widow Marries Husband's Escort

ROCKWOOD, Pa., Sept. 18 (AP)—The widow of a GI killed in Korea is a widow no more. She married the sergeant who escorted the body home—two days after he arrived.

The marriage took place two days before Pfc. Alton B. Sterner was buried in this little Pennsylvania town near the Maryland border. Sterner was killed in Korea June 19, 1953.

On Sept. 2, Sgt. Ira Frank Green arrived in Rockwood with Sterner's body. Army records show that Green, 25, from Waterbury Center, Vt., was regularly assigned to the Brooklyn, N. Y., Army Base but was discharged from the service on expiration of his enlistment today.

On Sept. 4, records in nearby Cumberland, Md., disclosed today, Green and Sterner's widow, 19-year-old Alma Marie Sterner, took out a marriage license in the Allegany County Courthouse. The 2-day waiting period was waived because Greeen was on travel orders and had to return to his base.

They were married almost immediately by the Rev. Robert L. Nair in the parsonage of Calvary Evangelical United Brethern Church in Cumberland.

Funeral director Roy Mickey said he did not see either the widow or the escort at the funeral service at the church or at the burial services on Sunday, Sept. 6.

Friends and relatives in this town of about 1,000, where everybody knows everybody else, are certain the two never met before.

Mrs. Green, located at the Waterbury Center home of her husband's parents, said she and Green "had been penpals for a long time." She said they intended to stay in Waterbury Center for a honeymoon and "then, maybe go to New York City to live."

She said Green was in Brooklyn, N. Y., obtaining his Army discharge.

"We're going to take legal steps to adopt my daughter, Carol Sue," she said.

Mrs. Green said she did not know that her late husband had been buried after her departure from Rockwood.
